PORTLAND, Me., Friday, March 27.

The steamship Bohemian, Capt. Borland, from Liverpool on the 12th, via Londonderry on the 13th inst., with 311 passengers, arrived here at 9:15 this morning. Her dates are one day later than those already received.

Purser Wallace reports as follows: Experienced strong northwest and southwesterly winds. Passed icebergs in longitude 49°. March 13 signaled the Nova Scotian, bound to Londonderry, and on the 16th the brig Glaucus, bound west. On the 20th passed a steamer in latitude 21° 35′, longitude 21° 30′, supposed to be the Hibernian, east. On the 22d passed a steamer in latitude 47°, longitude 47°, supposed to be the St. Andrew, bound east. On the 24th passed a steamer in latitude 43°, longitude 56°, supposed to be the Anglo-Saxon, bound east.

GREAT BRITAIN.

In the House of Commons the bill substituting affirmations for oaths was rejected, and one introducing whipping as a punishment for "garroters," was carried to a second reading in spite of the Government opposition.

The crowds in London on the night of the illumination were so dense that seven women were killed and a hundred persons had their limbs broken or were otherwise seriously injured. In some parts strong men were completely exhausted, and vehicles were jammed together for four or five hours.

At Cork, during the illuminations, there was some rioting by organized mobs, and the streets were several times cleared at the point of the bayonet.

The Prince and Princess of Wales remain at Osborne about a fortnight, after which they will give two grand evening parties at St. James, by command of the Queen.

THE CONFEDERATE LOAN.

A Confederate loan has been mentioned in England as having been negotiated at our Exchange. The news is not true. A banker of this place has joined other English firms in negotiating this loan, but he could never raise a farthing for it on any German Bourse. Public opinion with regard to slavery is too strong in this country to allow any one, by speech, writing, or acting, to interfere in its favor. Much as we lament the disruption of the Union and the improbability that it will be restored for the present, the cause of the Confederates is universally detested, and people who ventured to advocate that cause in clubs have been remonstrated with and then expelled. It might be to the advantage of England that in lieu of one powerful Republic, her rival on the seas, there should be in future two rival Republics watching each other. There might be a great allowance made for the sufferings caused by the war; still Slavery and slaveholders are too hideous and contemptible to allow any respectable paper to speak in their favor. The French papers which plead for the Confederacy were bought at the beginning of the war, and since then have got a hint at home to act in accordance with the French agents in Richmond and Galveston.—London Daily News.

THE REVOLUTION IN POLAND.

A Cracow telegram says that the following proclamation, by Gen. Langiewicz, dated March 10, has been published, and that it has produced a prodigious effect:

Countrymen: In the name of the Most High, the most patriotic sons of Poland have commenced a struggle, caused by terrible abuses, and directed against the eternal enemies of liberty and civilization.

Nothwithstanding the extremely unfavorable circumstances in which the enemy, by a great increase of oppression hastened us into an armed conflict, we have every reason to believe that we shall triumph in this great struggle for liberty and independence.

The struggle commenced by an unarmed people has already lasted two months, and gains strength and develops itself with energy, in the presence of this war, to the death—in the presence of the massacres, the pillage and conflagrations which mark the progress of the enemy.

Poland feels painfully the absence of a central Power, capable of directing the forces engaged in the struggle, and of summoning new associates to the field.

Although the Nation possesses more capable and worthy citizens than myself, and although I am thoroughly conscious of the heavy duties of the office and the weight of the responsibility which it involves, yet the gravity and necessity of the moment have decided me, after consultation with the Provisional Government, to assume the supreme power of dictator, which I shall surrender to the representatives of the nation as soon as the yoke of the Muscovite is shaken off.

While retaining the immediate direction of military operations in my own hands, I recognize the necessity of establishing a civil government, whose functions will be regulated by a special ordinance, the work of the Provisional Government.

I confirm the principles of Liberty and Equality to all citizens, granting land to the peasants with indemnity to the proprietors.

Poles of all provinces beneath the yoke of the Muscovite I summon to the struggle against the domination of Russian barbarism. Come one—come all,—the liberty of Poland must be achieved.

The concord of all citizens, irrespective of all classes, of religions, of communities, one and all making sacrifices for the common cause, will give to us such unity and strength as will render our now scattered forces terrible to the enemy and insure the independence of our country.

To arms! to arms! to arms! for the Liberty and Independence of our Fatherland.

LANGIEWICZ.

In terms of the above Langiewicz has been proclaimed Dictator of Poland.

Gen. Wysoki has been appointed his military coadjutor and director.

The civil administration has been intrusted to Poentjowski.

It is reported that all the independent members of the Council of State of Poland have sent in their resignations.

It is repeated that the Czar of Russia has sent a dispatch stating that whatever may be thought of the abstract justice of the demands of the Poles, the Emperor Alexander can listen to no overtures or terms of compromise so long as they continue in "armed insurrection."

A Cabinet Council had been held in Paris to consider what action was necessary in regard to the above dispatch.

Prince Metternich, the Austrian Ambassador at Paris, was about to proceed to Vienna.

The Secretary of the Prussian Legation, at Paris, had gone to Berlin to confer with his Government in regard to the Polish question.

A Cracow telegram, of the 10th inst., says that preparations are being made by both the Poles and Russians for a great battle.

FRANCE.

The Paris Bourse closed on the 11th instant at 69f. 70c. for the Rentes.

The bill for a new loan passed the Senate with only five dissentient votes.

It was reported that the contract for the loan had been signed by the Rothschilds, but the particulars had not transpired.

The London Times says that the advices from Paris state that the cause of the reduction in the rate of discount of the Bank of France is owing to considerable influx of bullion from America. Further reduction in the rate of discount was checked by a further downward movement in Consols on 12th inst.

FRANCE AND MEXICO.

An Exposition of the Policy of the French Emperor.

From Our Own Correspondent.

PARIS, Tuesday, March 10, 1863.

I propose to give you to-day in brief what I understand to be the general opinion of the leading men of the Empire on the Mexican Expedition, and on the relations between France and the United States.

A year ago or more I developed to you in this place what the Emperor's designs then were in regard to the Latin race, and especially in regard to setting up a barrier in Mexico against the further extension south of the Anglo-American race. These developments have been amply verified since by many indications, but especially by the late letter of the Emperor to Gen. Forey. This much, then, has been acquired to history, and I now propose to carry you forward another year, and indicate the probable sequel of the programme.

It is an axiom of the political economists, as you know, that old States, like France and England especially, cannot live and prosper upon their own resources, and that they require colonies for the production of raw materials and as a sort of political and commercial safety-valve. French statesmen long ago saw the value of the English colonies to England, and resolved upon following their neighbor's example. Algeria, after a long war with the natives, was acquired, but Algeria has turned out a failure. As a military establishment there is no inducement to emigration, and the colony thus costs the treasury of France from eighty to a hundred millions of francs a year. If, on the other hand, the Government should adopt for Algeria the only system which will ever develop its resources and make it a paying colony, that is to say, if the Government should make the colony a civil instead of a military establishment, and leave to the settlers the initiative in their own affairs of every kind, which, in fact, is the only condition of prosperity, the example, on account of the proximity of the colony, would be too striking, and Frenchmen in France would demand the same privileges. France, therefore, is yet too much of a despotism, and Algeria too near, to risk such an experiment, and this morning the Moniteur publishes a Senatus Consultum, which is considered as a final renunciation by the Government of all hope of converting Algeria into the kind of colony France desires and must have. By this decree the land is given back to the natives under such regulations as will check at once all emigration, and hereafter Algeria will only be interesting to France as a school for her vast army.

As regards the French colonies in the West Indies, they are mere naval stations, and cannot enter into the present consideration.

What France, with her growing manufactures and overflowing wealth, desires and must have, is an already developed colony, further away, and these conditions are exactly filled in Mexico. The Emperor has, therefore, transferred his experiment from Algiers to Mexico, and he says to all his entourage that he considers the Mexican scheme the "big thing" of his reign. Why is it so? Why is the little expedition of Gen. Forey a "bigger thing" than the war against Russia in 1855, or that against Austria in 1859? Because it is going to open up to French commerce and industry a mine of wealth that will develop the greatness and the grandeur of the Empire beyond that of any previous reign, and in a proportionate degree exalt the name of the Bonapartes in history.

The Emperor, therefore, is so shaping his policy as to finally fix himself in Mexico, and to make that country, by some sort of right tributary to France. Let us see then how this influences his policy toward the United States. From what I am able to gather from leading politicians likely to know, or at least most likely to be able to divine His Majesty's policy, there will be no act on the part of the French Government designed to provoke a war with the United States. But His Majesty desires a separation, and he desires the exhaustion of the two sections—in this particular having fallen entirely into the English line of policy. If a separation takes place, the North will not interfere with France in Mexico, and the South, being ruined for many years to come and unable to gather headway from the necessity of keeping up a standing army to resist the invasions of the North, will not be able to disturb her in her new possession. France, therefore, like England, is going to do all in her power, short of war, to provoke a separation; she will bully and persuade, she will offer mediation, and if she thinks it will not lead to hostilities, perhaps, later on, recognize the South. In fine she will do every thing which will render her Mexican policy more easy of accomplishment, short of a war with the United States—a contingency she does not for a moment dream of accepting, on account of its great cost and danger.

I think I may tell you, without betraying any particular confidence, that these are the views of the directors of all the liberal journals at Paris. Lately the silence of the Press, with the exception of the Moniteur, on Mexican and American affairs, has been the subject of universal remark, and naturally this silence has been attributed to an order from the Ministry; but I happen to know that these officious orders to the Press, in regard to Mexico and the United States, have not been as frequent lately as they were six months and a year ago, and that if to a certain extent the journals abstain from these subjects from fear, they abstain also a little because they are beginning to be converted to His Majesty's Mexican policy. Thus they now comprehend, better than they did a year ago, M. de Persigny's repeated exclamation, "Oh, you don't understand the true interests of France in this Mexican scheme!" But we cannot complain of this desertion of some of our ablest friends in the Press, for the miserable degradation in patriotism now exhibited in the North is fast convincing the last man that separation is final, and therefore, that if France has a brilliant field offered her in Mexico for adding to her national prosperity and grandeur, she may as well profit by it.

I have just used two harsh words toward a portion of the people of the North, and here is the reason why. The official paper, which is the only journal, as mentioned above, that has printed anything of importance for some weeks on American or Mexican affairs, continues to copy daily all the leading speeches and propositions of the Northern Copperheads. It publishes regularly the articles of the New-York World, Express and Journal of Commerce, in favor of peace, in favor of French mediation, and abusive of Mr. Seward for not accepting the last proposition of M. Drouyn de Lhuys; it publishes the speech of Hon. Mr. Pendleton, of Ohio, because it favors peace, and shows that the philanthropy of the North is false, since the people of the North hate the negro and will accord him no rights; and it publishes also the speech of Hon. Mr. May, of Baltimore, for the same reasons. But the official journal is careful never to publish an article from the New-York Times, or, in fact, from any loyal source; and it never, even by chance, quotes the sayings of any true patriot either in Congress or out of it. This studied programme of the Moniteur, in depreciation of the United States, has given great hopes to the Secessionists and a corresponding despondency to our friends; but I think I have given the true explanation of the affair in connection with the Emperor's policy in Mexico. At any rate, a collection of the Moniteur will serve hereafter in the United States as an excellent political "Black List," by which to remember those Northern men who deserted their country in the moment of peril, and devoted their time and talent to furnishing arguments to the enemy, native and foreign.

A British Frigate Convoying Blockade Runners from St. Thomas.

HALIFAX, N. S., Thursday, March 26.

The steamship Delta, from St. Thomas on the 17th, via Bermuda on the 23d instant, arrived here to day.

The National steamship Vanderbilt arrived at St. Thomas, from Barbados, on the 15th inst.

The Governor of Barbados invited Admiral Wilkes to dine with him, but the latter declined going, as a reason that the Governor had entertained Capt. Maffitt, of the pirate Florida, a few days previously.

Admiral Wilkes had transferred his flag to the Vanderbilt.

The Wachusett was at St. Thomas on the 16th inst., also the British steam frigate Phaeton, also two British steamers—the Aries and another unknown blockade runner.

Admiral Wilkes threatened to seize the two blockade runners if they attempted to leave port.

The Aries started on the 16th inst., but observing the preparations of Admiral Wilkes to pursue she turned back and anchored.

The Captain of the Aries then applied to the British steamer Phaeton for protection, which was afforded.

The Vanderbilt left the same day (the 16th) it was said for Havana.

On the morning of the 17th, the Phaeton convoyed the two blockade-runners out. The Wachusett did not follow them.

The commander of the Phaeton had communicated with Admiral Wilkes regarding the seizure of the Peterhoff.

The bark Fame sailed from St. Thomas on the 27th of February, with the crew of the Jacob Bell on board.

It is reported that the Captain of the Princess Royal is a passenger per the Delta.

REBEL REPORTS FROM THE MISSISSIPPI.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC, Friday, March 27.

Richmond papers, of the 25th and 26th, are to hand. They contain the following:

MOBILE, Monday, March 23, 1863.

The Appeal, of the 21st, says the steamer Natchez, with 1,300 bales of cotton, was destroyed by fire on the 13th, on a trip up the Yazoo.

The Hartford and Monongahela were allowed to approach within four hundred yards of our batteries at Grand Gulf, when they opened fire upon them, the vessels replying with broadsides several times. A dozen shots struck the vessels. Parties were seen carrying the wounded below. No damage on our side.

The Natchez Courier says the Hartford, with Commodore Farragut on board, anchored in front of that city on Tuesday afternoon, the 16th, and sent a small boat with a flag of truce ashore, with a note addressed to the Mayor, stating that if the United States gunboats were fired upon by the people of Natchez, or by guerrillas, he would bombard the City. The Hartford remained all night and left with the Monongahela in the morning.

OUR VICKSBURGH CORRESPONDENCE.

The Weather and Kindred Topics—The Cotton Mania—How Cotton-on-the-Brain Effects People—The Canals, &c.

NEAR VICKSBURGH, Tuesday, March 17, 1863.

The weather (universal topic!) has, within a day or two, undergone a marked change. Yesterday, people went shivering around in overcoats; to-day, stripped nearly to the buff. The same parties hunt the shadiest corners, woo the most robust breeze and enjoy, in anticipation, the cool delights of ice-cream and mint juleps. Flies, thicker than the swarms of locusts which plagued the disobedient Egyptians, are already upon us, while within another week, at furthest, may reasonably be expected the advent of mosquitoes, gallinippers, sand-flies and other pleasant concomitants of the Sunny South.

The poet, or whoever it was that first gave utterance to all that romantic nonsense about the "beautiful" "sunny South" ought, while in life to have been bastinadoed, and in death anathematized for his mendacity. Its beauty consists in swamps, lagoons and bayous, which give birth to nothing more useful or ornamental than beavers, crocodiles and moccasins; it furnishes the summer residence for cholera, the deathly dwelling of typhoid and yellow fever; in summer it is a furnace in which no white man can dwell, and in winter it is one vast dreary waste of mud. It has produced and nurtured a "chivalry" more pretentious than the knight errantry of Don Quixote; for every blessing in the shape of a pound of cotton that it has conferred upon the operatives of England it has inflicted a pang in the shape of a lash upon the shoulders of the descendants of Dahomey. If it has grown rice and sugar it has also fostered Slavery, and while the rest of the world has advanced in civilization, it has only succeeded in cultivating an aristocracy, founded, not upon great services rendered to country or humanity, but, upon the possession of a certain number of Africans.

Such is about all that I have ever seen in this country to entitle it to the name of "sunny," "beautiful South"—the very lazaar house of creation into which are inclosed all the ills, diseases and contagions of civil and natural existence.

The cotton mania, or as it is more generally termed, Cotton-on-the-Brain, still rages with unabated force. A large proportion of the thousands here suffering from the disease, experience no relief—a few, however, have been more fortunate, and are now rapidly convalescing. For instance, there are live gentlemen at Lake Providence, who, having been very low with Cotton-on-the-Brain, are now getting along finely. There is much cotton in that region unpicked, and to secure it, many gentlemen have labored assiduously. They came down, looked over the ground, offered to prepare it for shipment, giving ample security for the faithful performance of their duty, for one-half the crop.

Authorities were obdurate, however, until there appeared another party, Messrs. Wagley and Kelsy. Messrs. Wagley and Kelsy came prepared for a campaign. They brought many good reasons why they should have the contract, in the shape of demijohns of old rye, baskets of Heidsieck and queerly bottled logic known as "Morning Call," "Plantation Bitters" and "Bourbon Cocktails." With these reasons they soon got into a mess with some high officials; a little later, and the same logic had convinced everybody that they were precisely the men to gather that cotton, and furthermore that such eloquent reasoners needed to give but little more than nominal security for the performance of this gigantic contract.

And now Messrs. W. K, are hard at work—they have four hundred negroes picking—they have the use of Government teams and men to do all their transportation. If a bale of cotton turns up within fifty mile, that has a hoof loose (and it is astonishing how many such there are) it is at once taken to their mill and re-pressed at the rate of one-half for the Government—in short, the gentlemen bid fair to recover from cotton-on-the-brain, and enjoy a long life made happy by the possession, each, of a half dozen million of dollars.

An artist of one of the New-York Illustrated papers is slowly recovering from one of these attacks. He was very low, when, in one of his wanderings, he happened to find a resident citizen with a large amount of cotton, which he wished to take North, sell, and remain there until the close of the war. Artist undertook to negotiate the affair—got out the papers, obtained the required permission, and for his disinterestedness he pockets the snug little sum of $30,000.

Mr. Vaughn, a gentleman from Kentucky, was taken dangerously ill with cotton-on-the-brain, and journeyed hitherward for his health. He found two young ladies—the Misses Boswith—nieces of a Major-General, who has lately enjoyed intimate relations with the Czar of all the Russias. They have 216 bales of cotton—so Mr. Vaughn said—and he wished to get the cotton and young ladies North. Authorities were lenient, and gallantly gave Mr. Vaughn a permission to ship to Memphis, at Government expense, blank bales of cotton. Since getting this carte blanche, Mr. Vaughn has no idea exactly how much cotton the Misses Boswith have—it is certainly much more than he at first supposed—in fact he should not wonder if, in getting it all together, it is found that instead of two hundred and sixteen, they have some two or three thousand bales. I am happy to say that the crisis of Mr. Vaughn's disease is passed, and that he appears much, very much, better.

There are a hundred other cases of this remarkable and wide-spread complaint, which, although worthy of notice from their singularity, I cannot speak of for want of space.

Nothing visible to the superficial observer has been done lately toward the reduction of Vicksburgh. The cut-off at Lake Providence will probably be abandoned as impracticable, and other means be resorted to to constrict the rebel stronghold. The upper end of the canal is nearly completed, but there remains the most arduous and dangerous portion of the whole task—to clear the stumps from and finish the digging at the lower end. A dredge-boat went down there yesterday, and commenced work, but it is a task of infinite danger, as the rebels have a hundred pound rifle which covers the mouth of the canal. At intervals of five or ten minutes they fired all day yesterday, and up to 11 o'clock last night, sometimes sending over, sometimes falling short, but on several occasions bursting shells within a dozen yards of the dredge-boat. Whether it will be possible to finish the work under this fire, I do not know; it will, however, probably be persevered in until completed.

An expedition, under Gen. Sherman, and consisting of —— thousand men, has embarked upon transports, and will leave for the destined point within a few minutes. As I am going with them, I shall be obliged to close.

IMPRESSMENTS OF PROVISIONS.

IN TEXAS.

The Confederate News, published at Jefferson, Texas, has a long article upon "Impressments in Texas." It says:

"But a short time since, the people of this State were startled by the announcement that the whole State was put under Martial law. This was done at a time when not a single hostile foot trod the soil of Texas; and a military despot, clothed with unlimited and undefined powers, established in each county; and freemen, like slaves, were compelled to procure passes to attend to their business, when they had occasion to leave their own county. The reign of terror pervaded the whole land, and no man dared to speak above his breath.

The cry is renewed again in the land for impressments for the Government, by its agents, now traveling over the land, with orders, either genuine or pretended, from some military officer, to press certain articles, unless the holders will part with them at their own prices. Cotton, corn, sugar, hides and leather seem to be the most prominent articles. These agents, some of them with instructions in their pockets authorizing them to offer fifteen cents per pound for hides, offer ten cents, and threaten imprisonment if not obtained for that."

Such annoyance have these threats produced that when we meet with one of these gentry, and he commences his catechism, we feel that instant dread of him we do when we are in the presence of a noted robber or thief. Men begin to shun them as they would a leper. I could give instances where the wives of soldiers in the army have been induced to part with a portion of the necessaries left for their support, from fear of these threats. These gentry have no legal right to put into execution their threats.

IN GEORGIA.

The leading editorial of the Augusta Constitutionalist of the 8th inst., is a prolonged remonstrance against the remorseless seizure and impressment of property by the rebel Government now taking place all over the South. It pronounces such impressment "an arbitrary, high-handed measure, for which there can be no palliation, and says that, if persisted in, it will drive the people from the production of all articles of prime necessity, except what may be sufficient for the necessities of their families, thus sapping the very foundations of the Confederate Government, and even of society in the Confederate States."

The Columbus (Ga.) Sun, of March 13, has the following upon the same subject:

"Considerable excitement prevailed on the streets, yesterday, in consequence of the seizure of bacon in the hands of private parties, by a person claiming to be an agent of the Confederate Government. The person who made the seizures is a young man, represents his name as Sperry, and claims to be acting under authority from the Secretary of War. He had made several seizures when his authority was questioned, and himself arrested by the civil authorities, and placed in the custody of the Sheriff, to await his trial on Saturday morning next.

Thus the matter stands. We presume the case will be disposed of on Saturday, when we will take pleasure in reporting the proceedings.

Bacon was retailing before the seizures at 80 cents. We venture the prediction that it will be up to $1 25 in a few days—all the result of seizures."

Cluke's Guerrillas Still in the Vicinity of Mount Sterling.

CINCINNATI, Friday, March 27.

The rebel force in Kentucky is believed to be about 6,000 under Gen. Pegram.

It is reported that Woolford's cavalry captured 200 rebels yesterday.

Cluke's guerrillas still hover around Mount Sterling. Over 200 of his men have been captured since Sunday.

No apprehensions are felt for the safety of Lexington.

The Federal wagon trains, stores and camp equipage, from Danville and Richmond, have reached Lexington in safety.

Among the prisoners taken are two Majors, one a Paymaster, with $15,000 in Confederate money.

Telegrams in late rebel papers indicate that Gen. Longstreet, with a large army, is pushing rapidly into Kentucky.

One hundred prisoners at Camp Chase have signified their willingness to take the oath of allegiance.

Two men were arrested yesterday at Indianapolis for cheering for Jeff. Davis in the street.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Friday, March 27.

Train passengers say our forces had recrossed Duck River in pursuit of the rebels.

Other accounts insist that the rebels have left Danville.

Passengers from Mount Sterling, just arrived, report all quiet.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Friday, March 27.

The Frankfort train last night was delayed by a locomotive being thrown from the track, which took some time to remove.

The train brought the news of the retreat of the rebels from Danville toward Somerset—but as the military authorities have not been advised thereof by telegraph, they consider the report premature.

Danville refugees are coming in, and some excitement exists at Lexington, but popular opinion gains ground that the recent invasion of Kentucky was merely a rebel cavalry raid.

ELEVEN O'CLOCK A. M.

The Frankfort train is in.

The passengers disagree in their reports concerning the evacuation of Danville, some affirming and others denying the fact.

There is no telegraphic intelligence from that quarter.

LOUISVILLE, Friday, March 27—P. M.

A special dispatch to the Journal says: Eighty men of the Ninth Kentucky cavalry surprised the rebel pickets in the vicinity of Danville, last evening, who retreated into Danville in great disorder. The rebel force in Danville was 2,500 including the First Georgia regiment. This proves that the rumors of the rebel abandonment of Danville are incorrect.

ANOTHER IMPORTANT PRIZE CAPTURED.

The Steamer Nicholas I. Taken While Trying to Run the Blockade at Wilmington.

Sixteen Tons of Gunpowder Part of her Cargo.

Adams Express steamship Augusta Dinsmore, Capt. Crowell, from Port Royal March 20, and Beaufort, N. C., 24th, arrived yesterday morning.

The prize steamship Nicholas I. arrived at Beaufort on March 24, in charge of Prize Master Everson. She was captured off Wilmington, N. C., on March 21, by the United States gunboat Victoria, while trying to run the blockade. She had previously attempted to enter Charleston, but was unsuccessful.

The Nicholas I. is an old ship, of about 1,000 tons burden, and is said to have been a prize to the English in the Crimean War. She left England bark-rigged, and put into Nassau, where her main and mizzenmasts were taken down. When taken, she had but a portion of her foremast standing.

She has a very valuable cargo, consisting, in part, of 16 tons of gunpowder and 170 cases of rifles.

She would leave for New-York on the 26th March.

From San Francisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, Thursday, March 26.

Sailed—Ships Starlight, for Puget Sound; Avery, for Liverpool, carrying 33,000 sacks of wheat.

The salvors of the treasure from the wreck of the Golden Gate, offer to compromise with the original shippers, by paying them 50 per cent. of all money recovered. Some accept, and others will contend in the courts for more. The salvors hope to recover nearly all the treasure lost. They already acknowledge having brought between $600,000 and $700,000 to San Francisco.

The Legislature has agreed to adjourn sine die on the 8th of April. A proposition passed allowing the people of the counties along the line of the Pacific Railroad to vote whether the bonds shall be issued to the amount of $21,000 toward building the road within the State.

SANFRANCISCO, Friday, March 27.

Sailed, ship Hornel, for Liverpool, carrying 28,000 sacks of wheat.

At the auction sale, to-day, 4,000 kegs East Boston Syrup sold at 45¼ per gallon; 200 boxes Sperm Candles at 18c.; 1,000 boxes Knap's Candles at 18c.; Rio Coffee, 23c.

The Guild and Curryelion Mining Company have declared a third monthly dividend of $100 per foot, being $120,000 profit on the entire mine, or at the rate of nearly $1,500,000 per year. The stock is quoted $3,200 per foot.

The Loyal League.—The proceedings of the Loyal meeting held at Cooper Institute on the 6th inst. have been published in a neat pamphlet, which includes the speeches of Messrs. Brady, Van Buren, Field and others, together with the letters, resolutions, &c. This was the meeting over which Mayor Opdyke presided, at which the grand Loyal League was organized, of which Gen. Scott is President, and which gave the impulse which has led to the formation of so many similar Leagues throughout the country.

Samuel Wilkeson to Brig.-Gen. Birney.

To William B. Birney, Brigadier-General, by the grace of Abraham Lincoln and the concession of the United States Senate:

You have disfigured a false report of a battle in which you did not participate, with the following scurrilous paragraph:

"I must also complain that one Samuel Wilkinson, a volunteer Aid-de-Camp of Gen. Heintzelman, was permitted, as a correspondent of the Tribune, to spread far and near, through his own paper and others, these wretched stories as to myself. His semi-official position as an Aid-de-Camp on the General commanding the corps' staff gave his insinuations weight unwarranted by his own character for veracity."

"These wretched stories." What wretched stories? What stories of any kind? If you fight, Sir, as stupidly as you write, I pity your brigade. Your report is a plea for your reputation. Had you known how to draw it, you would have set forth the injurious statements to which you wished to reply denial and correction, and have plead to them squarely and specifically. When you came to me, and felt that you had both the right and the power to controvert the history I had written with the allegation, "I pronounce this false," you should have done so squarely and with dignity, and straightened up above the temptation that assails only mean minds, to endeavor to belittle widely-known men, by the use of language that describes the obscure.

I have no accurate recollections of what I wrote about you after the battle of the Seven Pines. My letters are in the files of the Tribune, in New-York. I think, though, that I said you had been ordered under arrest by Gen. Heintzelman, for disobedience of orders and for cowardice. I think that I said you halted your brigade in sight of the smoke, and hearing of the sound of a battle, in which your brethren in arms were unequally contending with a superior force, and refused to go to their aid. I think, too, I said that Col. Campbell, of the Fifty-seventh Pennsylvania, a part of your force, bursting with a soldierly impatience of the shameful inaction to which his regiment was condemned by your halt, jerked it out from under your hand, with the declaration that he had come there to fight, and not to squat, and marched his men straight into the battle. I have the impression, too, that I left you in one of my letters seated on a log in the wooded, leafy dress circle of the amphitheatre smoking and reverberating before you, smoking a cigar in comfortable but strictly obedient submission to an order that restrained your burning desire to roll back with your three thousand muskets the unequal fight which was piling the arena in front of you with the corpses of your comrades in arms.

My creed in military affairs justified me as a journalist in these strictures. For I believe with Nelson, sainted by a musket ball at Trafalgar, in the solemn duty of blindness in at least one eye, to signals to keep out of battles, into which a Commander ought to get, and ought to stay. I believe in the audacious invention of justifications for wholly disregarding orders which prevent a soldier from smashing his enemy before him, if he do not derange a plan of a battle or a plan of a campaign. I believe in the contract made by the act of enlistment, and the acceptance of a commission, that the soldier and officer shall face death and fall forward, crown to the foe. He has bargained away his life, and is morally and legally bound to die for his country on call.

Now, Sir, you have had the temerity to try to confirm your slowly recovered reputation by publicly questioning my veracity. Let me see what you make out of that.

I. I reaffirm that you were ordered under arrest by Gen. Heintzelman. And I add to that a fact which I generously forbore to press you with at the time. After the charges against you were forwarded to headquarters, Gen. Marcy telegraphed back to Gen. Heintzelman, to know if an additional charge of cowardice was not warranted by the facts in your case. [Gen. McClellan did you no intended injustice in this, for he knew that you were not with that part of your brigade which got into the battle of Williamsburgh:—that poor Willson was killed doing your duty at the head of your command, while you were simulating hurry with the tail of it, two miles behind. He knew, too, the truths of this statement in Gen. Heintzelman's report. "Gen. Berry, with his brigade, passed all obstructions on the way, and arrived on the field just as the enemy got to a battery of our artillery in the road, and repulsed him immediately." You were one of those "obstructions," for Gen. Berry passed you on the road in his ardor to get into the fight, and you let him pass you. And Gen. McClellan knew the truth of this other statement in Gen. Heintzelman's report: "An hour after Gen. Berry arrived, Gen. Birney with his brigade came up." Within that hour of nicely calculated delay the battle had ended, and Gen. McClellan knew it. Gen. McClellan was also a personal witness of the refusal, one day, of a "General of the Trenches" before Yorktown, to follow him and his Staff across an open and exposed break in the uncompleted works. Mind, you, Brigadier—a General of the Trenches!—whose duty it was to show them to his Commander-in-Chief. But this General of the Trenches turned his horse's tail to the shelterless space, and rode back to his quarters, while Gen. McClellan completed his tour of inspection without his aid. Brigadier, do you know the name of that General of the Trenches? He was greatly talked of, Brigadier, before Yorktown—greatly.]

II. I reaffirm that you halted your brigade in sight and sound of the battle, in direct violation of your Corps Commander's orders to go forward. Two such orders were sent to you—one at 3 o'clock, the other at 5. The last one found you squatted where the first one found you squatted. I leave to you the benefit of the justification for your disobedience which you have had the stolidity to publish—that Gen. Kearny ordered you "not to forward your command in obedience to orders not from himself!" Not a teamster in the army can be made to believe that. [I pray you bear in mind that Gen. Heintzelman and his staff are yet alive to testify to the management which procured the acquittal on which you indignantly boast. It was no greater trick than the procurement of the honorable mention of your name by Gen. Kearny in his report of the battle of Williamsburgh, in company with the names of Berry and Jameson. Gen. Heintzelman struck you out of that fighting society in his report of the battle; and Heintzelman is as just as he is brave.]

III. I reaffirm that the Fifty-seventh Pennsylvania, disgusted with your halt, cleared out from you, although under your command, and went into the battle. [The statement in your report, now in my hands, that you "led into the woods the Fifty-seventh Pennsylvania Volunteers and the Fortieth New-York, and succeeded, after a sharp contest, in driving back the enemy," I confess stuns me. History is falsely made at headquarters if you led a man of the Fifty-seventh, or of any other regiment, into action that day, or were anywhere within reach of fire, or were anywhere near the spot where Campbell fell. And let me caution you, Brigadier, not to use Col. Hobart Ward's report of the battle, which, in your ignorance, you thought you had not the right to make while you were under arrest:—for it was notorious in the Third Corps that that officer, who is as generous as he is brave, yielded to your importunity to let you write his report, so as to give you an opportunity to connect yourself creditably with a battle, which should have ended your military career.]

IV. The misstatements of this report of yours, which are its warp and woof, I did intend now to ventilate. But the game is not worth the candle. I have written myself at once into weariness, and the consciousness that an imputation put by you on a gentleman's veracity ought not to disturb him.

SAMUEL WILKESON.

New-York Times Bureau,
Washington, March 15, 1863.

An Extensive Burglary in Broadway.—The store of Messrs. B. B. Tilt & Son, No. 361 Broadway, was burglariously entered on Monday night last, by means of false keys, and property to the amount of about $1,300 was stolen therefrom. The firm discovered their loss the next day, and offered a reward of $500 for the apprehension of the burglar and the recovery of the property. Yesterday afternoon Detectives Elder and McCord seized the property as it was being conveyed through Eldridge-street. It was carefully stowed in a large trunk, and consisted mostly of choice silks. A man named George Heath was taken into custody upon suspicion of being the burglar. He was taken before Justice Dodge at the Tombs, and committed for examination.

Friday, March 27—P. M.

The Bank Superintendent of the State of New-York has promptly and gracefully sent into the Legislature the following draft of a bill to harmonize the Banking law of the State with the new National System of Banking recently enacted by Congress. We do not doubt that this measure will be speedily approved by both Houses of the Legislature and signed by the Governor. It is essential to avoid the possible conflict of laws between the local and Federal Courts, as the present statutes of the State on the subject of banking are inconsistent with the 62d section of the National law. Mr. Van Dyck's bill not only reconciles this discrepancy, but is comprehensive in reference to new organizations exclusively under the National system:

Section 1. The assent of the Legislature is hereby given to the organization of an Association for carrying on the business of banking within the State, pursuant to the provisions of the act of Congress "to provide a National Currency," &c., and the provisions of chapter 20, articles 3d, part 1st Revised Statutes, shall not apply to associations formed under or on notes issued in accordance with the act of Congress.

Sec. 2. It shall be lawful for any bank or banking association authorized by the laws of this State to avail itself of the provisions contained in section 62 of the act of Congress, and circulate the notes so received in the same manner as if received and issued under the laws of this State. But banks receiving notes under the section aforesaid shall, in a quarterly statement to the Superintendent, report the amount of notes in circulation, on hand, received and issued, according to said section.

Sec. 3. Nothing in this act shall be construed as releasing stockholders from liability imposed by present State laws.

The following is the 62d section of the law of Congress, authorizing any of the existing Banks of the States to take out Circulating Notes on the deposit of United States Stocks at Washington, to the extent of 80 ₱ cent. of their value, without reorganizing under the Federal authority and without reference to their local Circulation:

Sec. 62. And be it further enacted, That any Bank or Banking Association authorized by any State law to engage in the business of banking, and duly organized under such State law at the time of the passage of this act, and which shall be the holder and owner of United States bonds to the amount of fifty per centum of its capital stock, may transfer and deliver to the Treasurer of the United States such bonds, or any part thereof, in the manner provided by this act; and upon making such transfer and delivery, such Bank or Banking Association shall be entitled to receive from the Comptroller of the Currency circulating notes, as herein provided, equal in amount to eighty per centum of the amount of the bonds so transferred and delivered.

There is little question that this privilege will be extensively availed of by the Banking Associations of New-York, both City and country. And the process will create an additional demand for the Public Stocks of the United States, particularly the registered descriptions, both fives and sixes. They will be registered in the name of the Comptroller of the Currency at Washington, in trust for the various banks applying for the National Circulation, and will pay a larger interest than any of the State Stocks of New-York, which, by absorption in our own Banking Department, have become scarce and very high in the market. They will also hold out to our banks the additional inducement of a uniform and unfailing half-yearly interest in Gold Coin during the War, and suspension of specie payments, whereas some doubt is felt at present as to whether the Canal Board at Albany will continue to provide the State interest in Gold. How far this doubt is well founded, we shall not at present discuss, as the hope is entertained that the Legislature, to whom the question has been referred, will find it consistent with the public interest, as we are quite sure it is important to the high credit of the State, to continue these payments in Gold. The argument made against it is that the Banks of Circulation that own nearly or quite three-fourths the Public Stocks are themselves doing business on the basis of United States Notes of legal tender, instead of Gold and Silver, and pay the Canal deposits lodged with them in the same medium. With the prospect, however, that the present condition of War, through two years of which New-York has both received and paid Gold in the negotiations of the Canal Board, will not last much longer, it would seem to be advisable to waive this argument for the sake of financial consistency, and the good to result in after years to the State credit.

This has been another very exciting day on the Stock Exchange, following the heavy break in the market on Thursday. The fluctuations in Gold and Stocks were frequent and violent. The turn of the Share list, late in the afternoon, was to firmer prices, the advance from the lowest sales of the morning being from 1¼ to 2¼ ₱ cent. The extreme advance on Gold Coin was at one moment 3 ₱ cent., but this was not long sustained, and the closing figure is about 1¼ ₱ cent. above the last price of Thursday night. Exchange on London continued to rule relatively lower than Gold Coin, sales varying from 153 to 155 ₱ cent. The shipments of Gold this week are unusually moderate, owing to the pressure of bills heretofore drawn or contracted for delivery in all the month of March to speculators. The Gold which the Bankers had in many instances provided for shipment against these Bills has come upon the market again, because the Bills themselves could be had relatively cheaper. This liquidation, we apprehend, is not yet over, as similar contracts are running for April and May. There is some Cotton now going to Liverpool, for want of a market here, to save the holders from ruinous losses. The price in Boston and New-York has fallen 20 cents below the last currency in Liverpool, after having ranged 15 or 20 cents above it. The last-named difference recently caused 10,000 or 15,000 bales to be imported for the New-England mills, and this extra supply, with the fall in Gold, has completely upset the calculations of the Southwestern speculators. The additional decline this morning in some of the leading Railway Mortgages and New-York Central Shares brought in a few orders to buy for transmission to Europe. At the 3 o'clock Regular and 4 o'clock Public Boards the general demand for Stocks improved, and the following quotations were made about 4½ P. M., the market finally closing higher than yesterday:

THE CITY GOVERNMENT.

The following report was presented at a special meeting of the Board of Aldermen, March twenty-three:

The Committee on Wharves, Piers and Slips presented a report in favor of substituting stone in lieu of wood in the construction of Wharves and Piers, as follows:

The Committee on Wharves, Piers and Slips, to whom was referred the annexed resolution, directing your Committee "to inquire into and report to this Board as to the expediency of constructing stone piers at those places, if any, where the same may be better adapted to shipping purposes than the present piers," respectfully

REPORT:

That a subject of such vast importance, and so intimately connected with the commercial and, in consequence, every other interest centred in this City, received, as it merited, the most earnest attention on the part of your Committee. The present wharf accommodations are sadly deficient, both in character and extent, so much so as to imperatively call for the immediate action of the City authorities, with a view of devising some more comprehensive and general plan for affording, to the daily augmenting commercial wants and requirements of the City, the requisite facilities for the immense shipping business daily transacted. The construction of the present wharves and piers is faulty in the extreme—they are entirely too small—were put up only when the demand for them rendered it absolutely necessary—built by contract, and done by the job, frequently in great haste, and often at an unfavorable season, and without a suitable examination of the bed of the river. Some are comparatively new, while many are either sunk, bent, rotten, broken or injured, requiring constant and expensive repairs to preserve them from total destruction. Being in almost all cases built across the current, scarcely one of our frequent storms passes without doing damage to some part or portion of them. Their slender protection for shipping is apparent, in many cases forbidding their use by prudent owners and careful agents of valuable vessels and cargoes, while their dimensions are a subject of daily remark and regret, and a standing reproach to that public spirit, enterprise and sagacity that should characterize the actions of the municipal authorities of a city of the present greatness and future prospects such as are now enjoyed by the City of New-York.

Your Committee have given the subject much grave and anxious consideration; they have consulted many of our most prominent and scientific citizens, nearly all of whom differ in their opinions and views, and the projects proposed have been as numerous, nearly, as the number of persons consulted. In the investigation your Committee have been forcibly impressed with a plan submitted to the Common Council of this City in the year one thousand eight hundred and thirty-six by the Committee on Wharves, composed of Aaron Clark and Daniel P. Ingraham, which proposed "to suspend, hereafter, the building of any, or but few, small piers from the island, and in lieu thereof, to erect on the North River a stone island or quay, to be called the Great West Pier, to extend in due time from the South Battery northerly to Kingsbridge, or, at all events, as far as the interests of the City shall require; to be built from eight hundred to one thousand feet beyond the west end of the present small wharves along the North River, to be constructed without the aid of coffer dams, and using diving-bells only in the first five or six feet immediately below low water; to be connected to the main land by wharves or bridges, each two hundred and fifty feet wide, built of timber, and floored upon the plan, generally, of that built lately at the foot of Marketfield-street, with some additions of strength and braces, and some other particulars, thus dividing the waters between the City and great pier into several basins or departments, and the use of the connecting wharves so regulated as to afford a walk in the centre of each, a little raised, of twenty-five feet, for all people traveling to and from the great pier, or for any other purpose, and to allow of large sewers under the walks, by means of which the wash and filth of the City should be carried beyond the pier, into the bay or river; having on each side of said walk a cartway for vehicles going to and returning from the pier, of fifty feet each, and then leaving a quay or wharf on the upper or lower side, of sixty-two and a-half feet each, for the lading and unlading of vessels. All this can be done, giving more ample room, convenience and facility for the shipping than are afforded by the docks of London and Liverpool, and without any part of the monstrous expenditure of those places for lock and dock gates, &c., because the rise and fall of our tides do not render such very expensive and troublesome contrivances necessary. There will be draws in such of the bridges as may be found necessary, and such outlets into the river, across the pier, as may be thought best for the use that shall be made of it."

It was also proposed that "in the East River, above Corlaer's Hook, a stone pier and breakwater shall be constructed, on the plan of, the one recommended for the North River, commencing opposite Fourteenth-street, near Burnt Mill Point, and extending north to Thirty-fourth-street, at Kip's Bay, and surrounding and inclosing an ample portion of that part of the East River;" also, that "a good and substantial stone bulkhead be placed along the shore of the island; that as fast as any of the piers shall be completed, durable wharves, substantially planked and floored and braced, shall be extended to them from the shore, and at such places and from such streets as shall be found proper."

Your Committee would desire nothing better than to revive the old project, feeling assured that some such comprehensive and enlarged wharf, pier and slip facilities will ultimately be undertaken and completed—nothing less being sufficient to accommodate the vast and daily increasing commercial business of the City. But, in their opinion, the present is not the time to do so, when the expenses incident to the prosecution of the war now being waged for the preservation of the Union, the stagnation of business generally—that of our mercantile men in particular—and other adverse and depressing influences bearing directly upon our citizens, preclude any such undertaking at this time.

Your Committee, however, are of opinion that steps should at once be taken to commence the substitution of stone, in lieu of wood, in the construction of all new piers. The advantages of stone over wood, in erecting sub-marine structures, are so obvious as scarcely to require mention. It is easily susceptible of proof, that wharves and piers, as now constructed, of wood, are but mere temporary erections, and endure only from fourteen to seventeen years, before they are destroyed by worms; while their original cost of construction, combined with the sums annually expended in their repairs and preservation, taking twenty years as the maximum term of their existence, would be more than sufficient to pay for the erection of stone structures of equal dimensions—structures creditable to the City, in every respect better adapted for the transaction of the commercial business of our merchants, requiring no repairs, and which, if properly cared for, will last for ages.

The present mode of building our piers is very reprehensible, and should at once be improved, or else the work of building piers of wood should be entirely abandoned. The immense masses of stone used to form blocks, generally at the outer ends of the piers, are very frequently scattered over the bed of the river, by the collapsing of the wooden inclosure. They have thus impeded the current to such an extent that great deposits ensue, and the basins between our wharves have been filled in many places to such a degree, that even small vessels will hardly float now where the water was formerly of great depth. If this pernicious practice is persisted in, it will inevitably result in doing serious injury to, if it will not ultimately destroy, the unrivaled commercial advantages of our situation that have been derived from the natural circumstances of the position of the City.

No subject more intimately connected with the future prosperity and greatness of the City, can be entertained or considered by its authorities, than the one now under consideration. Reflection is lost in amazement in contemplating the dire calamities certain to result by reason of negligence or indifference, on the part of the municipal authorities of this City, to the vast interests connected with the protection and perpetuation of the inestimable natural advantages vouchsafed to us in the formation of the harbor, and its adaptation to the accommodation of the boundless enterprise so characteristic of our mercantile marine. Is it not worse than criminal to permit, nay, to authorize and direct, the building of structures from the shore of the island out into the stream, in both the North and East Rivers, which have been clearly shown to be not only totally unfitted and inadequate to the purposes for which they were intended, but which are positive obstructions to the navigation of the adjacent waters, and which, if continued, will inevitably result in the total destruction of the natural and invaluable commercial advantages enjoyed by the City?

An unaccountable apathy, if not criminal neglect, has governed the authorities of this City since its incorporation, in legislating upon this subject. The City of New-York, the first in the Western Hemisphere, the third in the civilized world, in point of population and wealth, and possessed of commercial advantages, as a City, far superior to any in either hemisphere is not in possession of a single wharf or pier that is not built of wood, in the most imperfect manner—mere temporary structures, in all stages of dilapidation and decay, very few of them fit for occupation or use, and every one of them a positive detriment to the navigation of the waters of the surrounding rivers, and likely to result in the destruction of the unrivaled natural facilities of the harbor. Certainly a sad commentary upon the wisdom and public spirit of our predecessors, and one that will be shared by the present Common Council, unless the initiative is taken by them in the inauguration of a system for the construction of wharves and piers, which will be at once durable, economical, advantageous, and which will tend to the improvement and preservation of the navigation of the waters of the harbor.

In marked contradistinction to the policy of the authorities of this City, in respect to its accommodation of the immense commerce of the port, is that of almost every other city, with any commercial pretensions, in either the Old or New World, both in ancient and modern times. Stone piers, moles or breakwaters, of great extent and of great cost, are not new or untried appendages of large naval depots. Evidences of this truth are found amid the ruins of the Piræus, as well as along the Nile, Indus and the Ganges. They contributed in no small degree to the wealth and power of Syracuse, of Carthage, of Tyre, and of Alexandria. The numerous fleets of the mighty nations of former ages could not have existed without their protection. And in latter times they were occasionally founded by the Government. At the present day, piers, moles, breakwaters, and wet docks, built of stone, are part of the business and policy of every nation, nay, every city, except our own, laying claim to be ranked among those of acknowledged wisdom and prudence. For the greater safety and convenience, and with a view to the increase of their commerce, the English people have constructed, at an almost incredible expense, extensive and permanent stone docks and wharves at London, Liverpool and other British ports, and even in British India. It is a matter of history that the construction of the Liverpool docks, by affording additional convenience to foreign trade, has been followed by a great increase, and raised that once decayed town to be the second port in the Kingdom of Great Britain for commercial size and population, while the London docks have contributed countless millions to the wealth of the capital of Great Britain. At St. Petersburgh, in Russia, there is one quay, of the granite similar to that of Quincy, of four miles in extent along the Neva. In Havre there is but little worth seeing, save the docks, which have, at great expense, been made by man. Here is no natural harbor, but one is made, as it were, in the shape of a Delta, in the heart of the city, from which an artificial channel leads out into the mouth of the river, and an entrance into which is secured by a long and noble pier. These docks are stupendous achievements of the art of man. The same may also be said of the marine works at Cherbourg, which probably surpass anything of the kind in the world, and are objects of wonder and admiration to every beholder.

Genoa, well known as a rich marine city of Italy, has a semicircular harbor, the diameter being about one thousand fathoms. It is artificial, being formed by two gigantic moles, having opposite directions.

The bay of Gibraltar is spacious, and being protected from the more dangerous winds, affords a convenient station for ships. The ancient Tarjis, now Tangiers, opposite to Gibraltar, was furnished with a pier. Leghorn has an outer harbor, protected by a fine mole, and a small inner harbor or basin.

The harbor of Malaga is protected on its eastern side by a fine mole, full seven hundred yards in length.

The harbor of Naples is formed by a mole, built nearly in the form of the letter L. The port of Odessa, in Southern Russia, is artificial, being formed by two moles, and calculated to contain about three hundred ships, and the harbor of Sebastopol was provided with some of the most extensive and substantial stone structures, designed for the protection and accommodation of the mercantile business of the port.

In Palermo a fine mole forms a convenient port, and Trieste is protected by a mole.

Ancient Syracuse is said to have contained within its own walls, what no other city ever did before or since—fleets and armies that were the terror of the world.

The City of Rhodes has a fine harbor, formed by a mole.

Smyrna, on account of the extent and convenience of its harbor, has become the common rendezvous of merchants from the far parts of the world, and the centre of their commerce.

Ancient Tyre was called "strong on the sea," and Alexander the Great reached it and took it only by constructing a gigantic mole of stone, three-quarters of a mile long, leading to it from the main. This was done about two thousand two hundred and thirty years ago, and yet that mole or pier remains, in most respects, as when left by the conquering legions of its founder.

The Piræus, near Athens, had three basins formed by piers. At Alexandria, the pride of him who gave name and greatness to that city, a mole of a mile in length, called Hepta Stadium, stretched from the continent to the Isle of Pharos, and divided the great harbor into two. A dyke, drawn from the island to the rock on which Pharos was built, secured it from the westerly winds.

In Dublin, the people and Government were long since alive to the subject of the protection of its harbor. A writer says, "that as the Bay of Dublin was often difficult of access, and as the bar was a great impediment to the sailing of the packets at a fixed hour, the attention of the Government was directed to the forming of a harbor on the north side of the peninsula of Howth, and, in one thousand eight hundred and eleven, a fine pier was erecting for the purpose;" and he says, also, "the river was greatly improved, for such vessels as did not draw too much water to cross the bar, by a prodigious work on the south side of it; called the 'South Wall,' which extends from the front of Ring's End to the light-house, three miles. It is formed of large blocks of granite, strongly cemented, and strengthened with iron clamps."

In our own country, and in our own time, the providing of proper wharves or quays for the shipping has attracted much attention, and commanded the abilities of the most practical minds in all sections of the country, devoted principally to commercial pursuits.

Many years since, a pier was built in New Haven, Connecticut, and has proved of essential benefit to the city.

In Boston, one of our most successful competitors for commercial greatness, and a rival of no mean pretensions, are several wharves that may well be ranked among the best structures of this description in the world. The following is a very brief description of them:

Long Wharf is one thousand seven hundred and thirty-two feet long and two hundred and two feet wide at the end; there are seventy-five stores on it. It was commenced in one thousand seven hundred and seven.

Central Wharf was begun in one thousand eight hundred and seventeen, is one thousand three hundred and forty feet long, and has fifty-four stores on it.

India Wharf was begun in one thousand eight hundred and eight, has thirty-four stores on it, under which are boxed cellars, with which the others are also provided.

These piers are justly the pride of the City, and are a source of profit to the enterprising proprietors. But had they yielded to the projectors little or no income, still their effect upon the growth, prosperity and value of the City would have been known and admitted, and would have richly repaid the outlay incident to their construction.

In Albany, in 1825, a pier was completed of about four thousand three hundred feet in length, eighty feet in width on the surface, incloses a part of the Hudson River there, forming a basin in front of the City, which contains an area of about thirty-two acres. Previous to the building of this pier, it was unsafe and indeed dangerous for any vessel to be laid up at Albany for the Winter. The moving of the ice in the Spring was sure to injure everything in the stream.

The harbor of Buffalo is protected by a stone breakwater, while the cities of Oswego, Dunkirk, Van Buren Harbor, Michigan City, with Kingston, Montreal, Quebec, and other cities in the British Provinces, in respect to the care bestowed upon the respective harbors by the municipal authorities, and the anxiety manifested to afford every desirable facility to the commercial advantage of their respective cities, insignificant though they be in comparison with this city, yet far excel us in the character of their marine structures designed for the protection and accommodation of their shipping.

This should not be. The first City on this continent, both in point of population and in commercial greatness, should not be the last in providing adequate means of affording a much-needed protection to the interest to which it is indebted for its preëminence.

Your Committee are clearly of opinion that no more wooden piers should be constructed. A wise economy, apart from other equally grave considerations, should influence this Common Council in dealing with a subject of so much magnitude; and it is easily susceptible of the most convincing proof, that stone piers, although they cost much more to build them originally than would be required to construct wooden ones; nevertheless, their indestructibility, their saving of hundreds of thousands of dollars annually, now expended in repairs, and the fact that no impediment will be placed in the way of the safe navigation of the waters surrounding the City, by the accretions or deposits formed around the obstructions caused by the decaying piles, timbers and collapsed blocks, or cribs—of itself a consideration far beyond the cost of their construction—will convince the most skeptical that a continuation of the present system is not only short-sighted and impolitic, but actually criminal.

In a sanitary point of view, incalculable advantage and benefits would result, by extending the outlet of the several sewers, from the slips or basins between the sewers and piers into which they now invariably empty, to the extreme outer end of the new piers. By this means, the filth of our streets, combining within itself every possible description of animal and vegetable refuse, and every other offensive thing that the owners and occupants of buildings stores, cellars, &c., desire to get rid of, will be carried out into the strong current or tide-way of the rivers, and be effectually disposed of, without detriment either to the health of the City, or injury to the navigation of the slips or basins. This mixture of animal and vegetable abominations finds its way from the street gutters, over the bulkheads, and is deposited by the emptying of the present sewers into the docks, slips and pier ways, where portions of it, by its own gravity, are precipitated to the bottom, to the serious injury of the basins and slips, requiring constant dredging to keep their depth sufficient to float even small vessels; while other portions remain for days and weeks floating on the surface of the stagnant water of the slips and basins, exposed, in the heat of Summer to the scorching rays of the sun, and exhaling a malaria that engenders disease in all who are obliged to inhale the poisonous effluvia.

A remedy for these evils is only to be found in the construction of stone piers, through which the sewers can be extended to the outer end, as it is not practicable to do so where the piers are of wood, and, as is generally the case, built upon piles.

Your Committee propose that, whenever it shall become necessary to rebuild one of the present piers, or construct a new one, the material used shall be of stone, and that such pier, so to be built or rebuilt, shall be constructed in the most substantial, durable and workmanlike manner, and be of such dimensions and form as shall commend themselves to the Street Commissioner, upon consultation with the best engineering talent to be obtained in this country. They also propose keeping in view the fact that, at no very distant day, the project of encompassing the entire City, or the major part of it, with a stone bulkhead, to be connected with the island, as was proposed in the year 1836, will be revived and carried to a successful termination, and that the stone piers hereafter to be built be so arranged as to be used as auxiliaries to that great work.

They further propose to order at once the construction of two stone piers, one in the East River and one in the North River, with a view of practically testing their advantages, and of ascertaining, by actual experience, the cost of such undertakings, in order to apply the information thus obtained by practice, to the theory of substituting stone in lieu of wood in the construction of all piers hereafter to be built by the City.

The following resolutions are therefore respectfully recommended for your adoption:

Resolved, That the Street Commissioner be and he is hereby authorized and directed to advertise for and receive, for a period of sixty days, surveys, plans, specifications and designs for the erection of two stone piers, one on the east and one on the west side of the City, and at locations to be selected by the said Street Commissioner; such surveys, plans, specifications and designs so received to be transmitted to the Common Council, with a recommendation in favor of the one that shall commend itself to him as the best calculated to answer the requirements of the City in respect to its piers, bearing constantly in view the very probable adoption by the city authorities, at some future and not very distant period, of a general and comprehensive plan for the erection of a stone pier, bulkhead or breakwater all around the city, or such portions thereof as will admit of the same; the pier hereby ordered to be built to be so constructed as to be used auxiliary to such plan when adopted, and to provide also for the construction of the sewers, in the streets fronting the said piers, to the outer ends thereof.

Resolved, That upon the approval by the Common Council of a plan for the erection of the piers, as provided in the foregoing resolution, that the Street Commissioner be and he is hereby authorized and directed immediately thereafter to advertise for proposals, and contract with the lowest bidder, pursuant to the provisions of the Charter, for the erection of the said two piers, the work to be undertaken and prosecuted to a successful termination, without any unnecessary impediment or delay.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

THE REBELLION.

Our news from the Mississippi, this morning, is from both National and rebel sources. It is reported, by way of Cairo, that the new expedition to the Yazoo has been successful, three of Admiral Porter's gunboats having reached Greenwood. A barge, containing a thousand bushels of coal, was successfully floated past the Vicksburgh batteries, for Admiral Farragut, on Saturday night. The rebels report, through the Richmond papers of the 25th, that Admiral Farragut, with the Hartford and Monongahela, engaged the Grand Gulf batteries as they passed up, but with no effect. The two vessels were at Natchez on the night of Tuesday, the 16th, and left the next morning.

It seems difficult to obtain exact knowledge of the strength of the rebel forces said to have invaded Kentucky. A dispatch from Cincinnati puts it down, on rumor, at about 6,000, under Gen. Pegram, while other reports have made it all the way from 3,500 to 10,000. A dispatch from Louisville brings us a rumor that Danville has been evacuated by the rebels, who have gone in the direction of Somerset, and the opinion is rapidly gaining ground that the whole "invasion" is nothing more than a raid. Another dispatch, however, insists that Danville is still occupied by the rebels, to the number of 2,500. Refugees from Danville were arriving at Louisville yesterday, but brought no more definite reports than the telegraph had already given. Cluke's guerrillas were still hovering around Mount Sterling, though upward of two hundred of his men have been captured since Sunday. Among the prisoners captured in skirmishes, during the week, are two Majors and a Paymaster—the latter with $15,000 in Confederate money. So far, the only corroboration we have of the report that Longstreet is pushing into Kentucky with a large army, is found in telegrams in late rebel papers.

We have advices from Port Royal, S. C., to the 20th inst., and from Beaufort, N. C., to the 24th, by the arrival at this port of the steamer Augusta Dinsmore. There is nothing new from Port Royal. The steamship Nicholas I., captured off Wilmington, N. C., on the 21st, while attempting to run the blockade, by the gunboat Victoria, was at Beaufort. She had previously attempted to run into Charleston harbor, but was unsuccessful. She has a very valuable cargo, consisting in part of 16 tons of gunpowder and 170 cases of rifles, doubtless intended for the rebel Government.

We have advices from the West Indies by the arrival at Halifax of the British steamship Delta. Admiral Wilkes has transferred his flag to the Vanderbilt, and that vessel had arrived at St. Thomas from Barbados. It is stated that the Admiral declined to dine with the Governor of Barbados, for the reason that the latter had entertained Capt. Maffit, of the pirate Florida, a few days previously. Two blockade runners were at St. Thomas, and in consequence, it is said, of a threat of Admiral Wilkes to seize them if they went to sea, they were convoyed out of the harbor by the British war steamer Phaeton.

There were vague rumors afloat in Boston, on Thursday, that Gen. Banks had been compelled to fall back from Port Hudson, with the loss of two or three regiments. We have rebel reports from Port Hudson to the 21st inst., which makes no mention of any such occurrence.

THE STATE LEGISLATURE.

In the Senate, yesterday, it was voted to consider the General Appropriation bill as the special order on Thursday next. Among the bills reported favorably was one to incorporate the Union Trust Company—a majority report. The bill relative to the Common Schools of New-York was passed. It increases the tax to five dollars per pupil. The bills for the Improvement of the Chemung Canal feeder at Corning, and for the completion of the Nine-Mile Creek feeder, were also passed.

In the Assembly, the bill relative to assessments in Brooklyn, among others, was reported favorably. The bill to incorporate the New-York Medical College for women was made the special order for to-day. The bill incorporating the Protestant Episcopal Tract Society was passed; also, Mr. Dean's bill to prevent speculation in gold, by a vote of 77 to 31; also, the bill authorizing a railroad through Canarsie and Gravesend; also, the bill incorporating the Dry Goods Clerks' Early Closing Association of New-York; also, the bill prohibiting the use of suspension bridges at ferry landings. Both Houses held evening sessions, but nothing of importance was done.

GENERAL NEWS.

Advices from Europe, one day later, are received by the steamship Bohemian, which arrived at Portland yesterday. She left Liverpool on the 12th and Londonderry on the 13th instant. The news is important. The pirate Alabama had been spoken by an English vessel, and reported having destroyed thirty-four American vessels. The report that Langiewicz had been declared Dictator of Poland is confirmed. He had issued a stirring address to his countrymen, which will be found in our dispatches. It is reaffirmed that the Czar had sent a dispatch stating that whatever might be thought of the abstract justice of the demands of the Poles, no overtures or terms of compromise could be listened to so long as they continued in armed insurrection. Further casualties are reported as having occurred on the occasion of the Prince of Wales' wedding. Seven women were crushed to death and upward of a hundred persons had limbs broken. Several riots occurred in Cork, in which it was necessary to call upon the military to restore order. The Cotton market closed with an advance of ½d. on the week. Breadstuffs were generally unchanged, and Provisions dull. Consols stood at 92½ for money.

The very latest report from the First Congressional District, of New-Hampshire, is that Joel Eastman is elected by a majority of five votes.

Col. Van Wyck sails in the Arago, to-day, to join his command at Port Royal.

The Grand Jury yesterday found a new indictment against Dr. E. M. Brown, for murder in the second degree, in connection with the Eighth-avenue abortion case. The former indictment for manslaughter has been quashed, and the case will be brought on for trial in the Court of Sessions, before Recorder Hoffman, at the opening of the April term of the Court.

The will of Catharine Gemmel, now admitted to probate, bequeaths $3,000 to St. James' Church of this City.

The price of Gold was 1¼ ⅌ cent. higher yesterday, closing at 140½; Exchange 155 ⅌ cent. The Stock Market was much excited through the day, finally closing better than on Thursday night.

Breadstuffs were in more demand, yesterday, at a shade firmer prices. Provisions, also, attracted more attention; Lard was dearer. Groceries were brisker, but cheaper. Cotton was more regular in price, but inactive. Whisky was salable and steady. Hay was selling freely at buoyant rates. Dry Goods continue dull and heavy. The Auction sales of the day, though well attended, were spiritless. The sale of Domestic Cottons, showed a falling off of full 25 ⅌ cent. from the highest prices of the season. The movements in other kinds of Merchandise, as also in Freights, were quite limited.

Letters-of-Marque and the Confederate Cruisers.

Sidney Smith would not speak disrespectfully of the Equator. We certainly intended nothing of the kind, the other day, in our distant allusion to Saturn. The National Intelligencer does us injustice. We hold that planet in great veneration. Possibly, sometime, when we cease to be "young" and "versatile" and "sprightly," and all that, we may become Saturnian, too. The Saturnian Age, they tell us, was the golden age—when purity and simplicity had it all to themselves. The old poets say it will be restored. If so, we hope to be there. We have sometimes thought that Alexander Pope had us in his eye in his prophetic vision of the "Saturnian Times." It pains us that our ancient cotemporary should have such perturbations. We protest we meant nothing disrespectful.

In regard to these letters-of-marque, "yonder Venus in her glimmering sphere" (we hope that will suit better!) thus radiates:

> "Our young cotemporary has not formed to itself a very clear idea of what is meant by letters-of-marque. We suspect it is stronger in astronomy than in public law. We therefore find ourselves under the necessity of explaining to our astronomical cotemporary that general letters-of-marque are not at all needed for the limited and particular uses to which the Times proposes that they shall be put, in the capture of 'three or four swift and powerful Confederate vessels, which have been for months preying on our commerce.' The Times will, perhaps, be surprised to learn that we do not at all differ from it in the propriety of capturing these vessels, if possible, by private enterprise, but we like to have things called by their proper names."

A very beautiful play of light, certainly! We see now we are in a way of getting "a very clear idea of what is meant by letters-of-marque." It is our misfortune that we were bred under a minor luminary, though called a great one in his time. Chancellor Kent sets it forth thus:

> "Sir Mathew Hale held it to be a depredation in a subject to attack the enemy's vessels, except in his own defence, without a commission. The subject has been repeatedly discussed in the Supreme Court of the United States, and the doctrine of the law of nations is considered to be that private citizens cannot acquire a title to hostile property, unless seized under a commission, but they may still lawfully seize hostile property in their own defence. If they depredate upon the enemy without a commission, they act upon their peril, and are liable to be punished by their own sovereign; but the enemy are not warranted to consider them as criminals, and, as respects the enemy, they violate no rights by capture. Such hostilities, without a commission, are, however, contrary to usage and exceedingly irregular and dangerous, and they would probably expose the party to the unchecked severity of the enemy; but they are not acts of piracy when committed in time of peace. * * * Non-commissioned vessels have no interest in the prizes they may take. It is the settled law of the United States that all captures made by non-commissioned captors are made for the Government."

It seems, then—or rather did seem before the new light broke in upon us—that an antecedent commission from the Government is absolutely necessary, in order to enable private parties to make lawful prizes of the Alabama and Florida, and other Confederate vessels, even should they overtake and capture them. Without such a commission, the captured vessels would be the property of Government, and nothing short of a special act of Congress could transfer that ownership, either in whole or in part, to the captors. Of course no private parties will go into the business on any such uncertainty. But we believe such parties would undertake it, if commissions, in the nature of letters-of-marque, were issued, that should give them a legal title to the vessels when captured, the principal of which, on account of their speed and strength, have a high commercial value. We are informed that responsible persons in this City thus hold themselves in readiness, and would take all the risks of failure. If successful, they might, perhaps, look to Congress for a bonus, but not to the President, for he has no authority in the premises but to give the commission, which would entitle the captors to the prize. That commission, to be worth anything legally, must be a letter-of-marque—nothing more or less. It should be directed against all vessels bearing the Confederate flag, whether armed or unarmed, belligerent or commercial. The idea thrown out by the World that privateers can operate against commercial vessels only, and that they must be useless in this case, because the Confederates have little or no commerce under their own flag, is not worth noticing. Privateers, under the law of nations, may make lawful prize of any vessel belonging to the enemy.

We suppose that the hesitation of the Government to grant commissions to private vessels, comes from a reluctance to recognize the belligerent rights of the Confederate vessels. It originally took the ground that those vessels were piratical, and that their officers and crew were no less than pirates. If this were actually the case, of course no letters-of-marque against them would be either necessary or proper. Anybody would have a right to seize and appropriate the vessels. But our Government could not maintain that ground. It did not hang the Confederate sailors as pirates, but exchanged them as prisoners of war. In nearly every way it has been obliged to treat the Confederates as regular belligerents; and it is difficult to see how any principle can be compromised, or harm done, in employing against them letters-of-marque, subject to the checks imposed by the laws of war. So wide a recognition has been made elsewhere, that nothing can be gained by stickling here.

We have simply again to say that our commerce is suffering prodigiously from those Confederate cruisers—that the Government vessels, from lack of speed or the inefficiency of their commanders, have for months in vain tried to capture them—that private parties, wearied with this long course of outrage, are supposed to be not only willing but anxious to see what they can do to arrest it, if "duly commissioned" by the Government. This being duly commissioned involves letters-of-marque, and would constitute their vessels privateers. But they are not afraid of that, nor should the Government be. What is wanted is not a dignified name, but effective work.

Fernando Wood's Secret.

Some time since, Fernando Wood made the statement, over his own signature, that peace propositions were received from the Confederates at Richmond, last December, which, if adopted, "would have been satisfactory to the people both North and South." This implied, of course, a return of the seceded States to the Union, as no other settlement could be satisfactory to the North. These propositions, said Mr. Wood, were laid before the Administration at Washington, but were instantly and unceremoniously rejected. Mr. Wood added, that the evidence of these facts existed in the handwriting of one of the highest officers of the Government, and that he only withheld it from the public because of the obligation of secrecy imposed.

We need not comment on that sort of fidelity to an injunction of secrecy, supposing one to have been imposed, which permits a man to expose the substantial facts of a transaction he was expected to conceal. It is to trifle with all ideas of confidence and good faith. After having divulged so much as he pretended, the public could see no virtue in Fernando Wood's affectation of a regard for a promise given, and they did not doubt that if he had possessed the convincing proofs he claimed, he would have made haste to spread them before the world in the newspapers, to do all the injury to the Administration he was desirous of having his unauthenticated word accomplish. If Mr. Wood was wronged by the universal disbelief of the truth of his statements, he has the consolation of knowing it is the natural result of his own disregard of the proprieties of life and the obligations of honor.

But Mr. Wood has some sort of backing at last in his arraignment of the Administration. Vallandigham, of Ohio, in an address to the public, repeats the story of peace overtures as follows:

> "On the 12th of last December, when from the City of Richmond information came to the City of New-York that there was a disposition to compromise and return Delegates to the National Congress and be obedient to the Constitution and laws, and thus restore the Union as it was, the President, on that day, rejected the proposition, and the damning evidence of that rejection exists in New-York over his own autograph—but there is an obligation of secrecy at present, and the letter has not yet been given to the public."

Undoubtedly Vallandigham and Wood have precisely the same knowledge of the facts in the case. What one has, the other is unquestionably possessed of. And it helps us wonderfully in the interpretation of the secret so admirably kept, to have the oracular divulgements of Vallandigham, as well as Wood, to go by. Let us look closely at the language of Vallandigham, and see what the "peace propositions" from Richmond amounted to. To have had any merit whatever, it will be admitted that they should have been definite and official; they should have emanated from the rebel Government itself—from Jeff. Davis and his Congress; they should have been made to our Government; and they should have been accompanied with the offer and the act of unconditional disbandment of military organization against the United States Constitution and laws. That would have been "satisfactory to the North"—nothing else. What are the facts? Mr. Vallandigham gives them as follows:

> "Information came to the City of New-York that there was a disposition (!) to compromise, and return delegates to the National Congress."

We need not spend words on this ridiculous affair, as disclosed thus by Vallandigham. The Government of the United States, which the rebels must treat with, resides at Washington, not in "the City of New-York." The Administration, before acting, would require, not "information" derived through third persons in New-York City, but positive knowledge from the rebels themselves, assuring of their unconditional submission to the laws. There was, according to Vallandigham, nothing whatever of these conditions precedent to peace. Even the rebel animus, as brought to the attention of the Government in this roundabout way—it does not appear that the communication came from the Confederate authorities at all—only appeared to give expression to a "disposition"—not a purpose—to return to allegiance.

It is very evident, from the way Mr. Vallandigham puts the case, that the Government at Washington could not have entertained "the propositions" which Mr. Wood says were submitted, without committing a grave offence against the Constitution and laws they are bound to support. And the only solicitude any member of the Government may have felt about the publication of what he has written on the subject, must have originated in fear that the fact of a correspondence with New-York rebel sympathizers on grounds so trivial, would have led to a well-grounded impeachment of his own loyalty.

If any "propositions" at all came from Richmond, they were unquestionably insincere and intended for partisan use, and hence properly sent to the party leaders of "New-York City." Their object was, either to divide the North by raising a hope of immediate peace, or to entrap the Administration at Washington into negotiations with rebels in arms, which would have destroyed confidence in it in the loyal States. Be the object what it was, it signally failed, and Fernando Wood and his rebel friends took nothing by their motion. The Richmond authorities have asserted a thousand times, in forms of solemn and awful adjuration, that they would never treat with the United States Government for terms of peace except on condition of the absolute recognition of the Independence of the Southern Confederacy. Does Mr. Wood or Mr. Vallandigham mean to say that in December last Jeff. Davis and his haughty confederates in treason were ready to forswear themselves and abjectly eat their words before their own people and the world? Their talk of peace propositions is given the lie to, in advance, at Richmond.

The Democracy and the War.—The Albany Atlas and Argus says, with a great deal of justice and force, that "it would be a sad thing for our country, if the assertions made by the Republican partisan organs were true, that the Democracy of the North are in sympathy with the rebellion, and prepared to resist the laws of the Federal Government." We are glad the Atlas begins to appreciate the responsibility of such a position: we may hope, perhaps, that it will begin bye and bye to use its influence to keep the Democracy from taking such ground. Hitherto the Atlas has done everything in its power to excite hostility against the "laws of the Federal Government," and thus to prepare the minds of the Democracy for resisting them. To a certain extent its endeavors have been successful. Quite a number of prominent men in the Democratic party—such men as Wood and Brooks in this State, Vallandigham in Ohio, and Toucey in Connecticut,—have come out openly, under the shelter of such doctrines as the Atlas & Argus has advocated, in favor of resistance to the National laws and in expressions of open sympathy with the rebellion. The Atlas begins to perceive that "it would be a sad thing for the country," if this course should be generally taken by the Democratic party.

In the article from which we have quoted above, the Atlas and Argus goes on to urge the necessity of union at the North. We concede this fully. We agree most heartily with the Atlas as to the importance of unity and harmony. And now, how is that unity to be attained? What, in the judgment of the Atlas, should be done to secure it? The reply of simple common sense would be, that the people of all parties should sustain the Government,—should urge obedience to the laws, forget all party differences and distinctions, and do everything to strengthen the Government in its contest with the rebellion. The Atlas and Argus seems to think, on the contrary, that it is the duty of the Administration to consult and conform to the wishes of the Democratic party, as such. It dictates what it must not do if it hopes for unity. Harmony is not to be secured, it says, by "loyal leagues or by arbitrary arrests, by coaxings or by threats." This is probably true—though it does not seem to us very much to the point, inasmuch as these are not the means relied upon for securing harmony among the people. Congress has passed sundry laws, calculated to call out the strength and resources of the country for the prosecution of the war against the rebellion. Prompt obedience to these laws seems to us the best way of uniting the people, crushing the rebellion, and restoring the Union. What has the Atlas and Argus to say to that?

The Rebel Impressments.—The impressment of provisions by the rebel Government seems to be going on all over the Southern States, and is producing the greatest discontent and excitement, not only in Virginia, but everywhere. In Texas they have seized corn, sugar, cotton, leather, and everything they could lay their hands on. A Texas paper says that the impressment agents are shunned by the people as they would shun lepers; and that their threats have compelled even the wives of soldiers to give up the necessaries left for their support. So far as that State is concerned, it will now happily be relieved from these authorized and merciless robberies by the fleet of Admiral Farragut. His vessels not only control the Mississippi between Vicksburgh and Port Hudson, but a number of them have ascended the Red River, the only route by which these supplies can be carried from Texas, and doubtless some of the steamboats bearing them have fallen into his hands. They will furnish most opportune aid to the men of his fleet.

We give also some extracts from Georgia papers, remonstrating against the remorseless impressment of property in that State by the rebel authorities. One of them echoes what has been asserted by the journals of Virginia and North Carolina, that these arbitrary measures "will drive the people from the production of all articles of necessity except what may be sufficient for their own use;" and it further asserts that they "are sapping the very foundations of the Confederate Government, and even of society in the Confederate States."

It is evident that if the rebel rule were to exist in the South a couple of years longer, the whole of that rich section would be reduced to a howling wilderness. All the white men and boys conscripted, the whole slave system in disorganization, all the cotton devoured by fire, the soil uncultivated, and the small stock of supplies grown at the mercy of Confederated robbers—such are the least of the woes of the rebellion, nearly all of which have been realized already, and the rest, and far greater, too, are among the certainties of the near future. Every motive, which can appeal to the material interests of man, not to speak of the higher motives which have heretofore been the popular inspiration, calls upon us to make haste to crush out this truly infernal rebellion, and execute justice upon the ravishers and devastators of the fairest land upon which the sun in his circuit shines.

The New "Porkopolis."—Cincinnati has lost her chief glory, and must henceforth resign with that the soubriquet of which she has long boasted. Westward the hog wends his way, and over Chicago, the City of the Lake, his star now rises and sets. The season of '61–'62 showed that Cincinnati was no longer entitled to the swinish distinction of being the chief pork-packing city of the world, as Chicago then packed forty thousand more hogs than she did; but the statistics of the present season, just published, reveal the amazing fact that while Cincinnati has packed 562,582 hogs, Chicago has, by regularly established packers, packed no less than nine hundred and seventy thousand, two hundred and sixty-four, or close upon a round million. We sympathize with Cincinnati; we congratulate Chicago—henceforth crowned the true and undisputed Porkopolis.

Three Days of Grace.—There are but two secular days after to-day in which the clemency of the President is extended to deserters. He gave twenty-one days' notice that all who should return to the designated places of rendezvous before the 1st of April should be subjected to no other punishment for their criminal delinquency than loss of pay for the time they were absent without authority. After that time, we have reason to believe, there will be examples furnished of the necessary rigors of military law. The days of grace will not be extended, and the penalty will not be relaxed. There will be no sympathy, as there can be no respect, anywhere, for those who fall by the bullet as a punishment for this highest of military crimes. Our army and the country have suffered enough already by desertion. There will be general gratification, both among their comrades and among their fellow-citizens at home, to see these skulkers brought to justice; and to see that those who would fly from the bullets of the enemy only do so to be met by a charge a thousand times more sure to kill. As soon as it is found more dangerous to run away from the army than it would be to remain in it, though there were a pitched battle every week, there will be no more desertion. This is the policy the rebels have carried out for the past year, and it is the only just and proper policy in time of war. Those who know of deserters anywhere in the City will do them the greatest kindness by urging upon them an instant return to their regiments, or by reporting them to the authorities.

We are glad to hear that many hundreds in this City, and thousands throughout the country, have already taken advantage of the President's clemency. Many of these had left their regiments under various pretexts, intending when they left to return in a few days, and many had strolled off without reflecting upon their guilt or anticipating the penalty. The President's proclamation revived their sense of duty, and by their conduct they will now do what they can to atone for their dereliction. Those who remain behind had better report themselves before today's sun sets, or next Saturday may find them filling the infamous coffin of the deserter.

A Princely Wedding.—The Prince's Wedding in London was a more sanguinary affair than at first appeared. We learn now that seven women were crushed to death by the mob, and upwards of one hundred persons had their limbs broken. This in London alone. Probably in other cities of the islands, where the excitement seems to have been nearly as great, there were enough killed to make up a hundred, and the wounded doubtless count by thousands. This makes a respectable hecatomb for the occasion; but it was not enough. In Cork—and in how many other Irish cities we know not—riots were got up, and the streets had to be several times cleared at the point of the bayonet. In London the breakdown of the Police is described as complete, and the "fierce-looking chargers" upon whom the Press love to descant, had hard work to prevent a general tumult. In England an ocean of bad beer was drank, and in Scotland and Ireland seas of usquebaugh, and the amount of drunkenness seems to have been frightful. Had it occurred on this side of the Atlantic, the English Press would have dilated upon the affair as an unparalleled scene of killing, maiming and fighting, of yelling, drunkenness and madness. It is well for the women of England and the peace of the kingdom that there are no more Princes of Wales to wed.

Loyal Meeting.—We understand that another grand public meeting will be held at the Academy of Music under the auspices of the Loyal League during the coming week, at which Gen. Butler will be the principal speaker. This will be the third in the series of the popular and effective gatherings of the loyalists of New-York.

AMUSEMENTS.

Academy of Music.—The second performance of "Norma," last evening, attracted an overflowing audience, and was as successful in all its details as on Monday evening, when it created a furore. It is not only in the music of this opera that Mme. Medori is heard to the best advantage. It affords to that lady an opportunity of displaying the earnestness of a nature that is thoroughly dramatic, and needs only such a work to find utterance. The intensity of her action, the calmness with which she always remains superior to the situation, the dignity which was in her moments of wildest frenzy—as, in the trio finale of the third act she still preserves her authority as the chief priestess of a mystic religion, are elements that can only be fused into a perfect whole by the fire of genius, such as Mme. Medori undoubtedly possesses. Such a Norma has never been seen on the American stage, and it is not a matter of surprise that on Mme. Medori's repetition of the character last night, it elicited all the enthusiasm of a first performance. The lady was frequently recalled.

Signor Mazzolini appeared to be suffering under a severe cold, but in other respects the opera was excellently rendered. We hope that it will be repeated.

To-day the last matinée of the present season will be given, the opera of "La Traviata" being selected for the occasion. If the weather is fine, there will be a great display of the Spring fashions, as well as a good performance of a favorite opera.

Winter Garden.—Miss Lucille Western will give a day performance of "East Lynne," at this establishment, to-day, beginning at the usual matinée hour. There are thousands of readers of the novel who would be glad to see it in a dramatic form, but are unable to attend in the evening. This opportunity afforded by Miss Western, will enable them to do so. We may add, too, that whatever the critical opinion of the merits of the lady's performance, it never fails to awaken the emotion of the audience.

Un Ballo in Brooklyn.—Last night Mr. Maretzek's troupe gave that peculiar and enigmatic production known to the operatic world as "Un Ballo in Maschera." The Governor of Boston (Mazzolini) was in excellent voice and temper, and, with his Secretary, (Bellini,) carried the audience up to a furore of enthusiasm. Mme. Guerrabella, whose strength has never been quite equal to the necessities of her rôle, was suffering from a severe cold, and merited the sympathy of the house. Madame Brignoli, as the Page, in exceedingly ungraceful trowsers, but most excellent condition, was deservedly encored in the gem of the first act, and Mlle. Sulzer was thoroughly excellent throughout. The abridgment of the third act was doubtless a necessity, but none the less an unpleasant feature of the evening.

To-night, with the same great cast as before, "Norma" will be given at the New-York Academy, and on Saturday the farewell matinée.

Gottschalk in Brooklyn.—Mr. Gottschalk presents at the Academy to-night a bill of attractions such as we are rarely blessed with. In addition to his own performance upon the instrument of which he is so thorough a master, he will have the assistance of Madam Strakosch, Mr. J. R. Thomas, and Mr. Theodore Thomas and Signor Abella. With Mr. George W. Warren, Mr. Gottschalk will produce an original duett, as in the second part he will do the same with Mr. Truesdel. The concert merits a great success, and we doubt not it will receive the encouragement it deserves.

Niblo's Garden.—Miss Matilda Heron will commence an engagement at this house on Monday evening, when the sensation play of "Edith" will be revived with new scenery and a fine cast. The sale of tickets commences to-day.

Broadway Menagerie.—There will be three performances at this establishment, to-day, when the lions, the tigers, the elephants and the rest of the animals will make their final bows to the New-York audience—this being their last appearance. The collection is one of the best we have ever had here, and it is a pity that it must take its departure so soon. Be it remembered then, that to-day is the last of the Broadway Managerie for the present.

Museum Matinees.—To-day there will be two Matinées at the Museum, at each of which the full strength of the company will be put forth.

IMPORTANT FROM WASHINGTON.

The Rebels Preparing to Abandon Richmond as their Capital.

$40,000,000 Paid to Our Army in Ten Days.

A Great Union Meeting to be Held in the Capital.

OUR SPECIAL WASHINGTON DISPATCHES.

Washington, Friday, March 27.

PREPARING TO ABANDON RICHMOND.

The Administration is in receipt of reliable information to the effect that the rebels are preparing to abandon Richmond as the capital of the Confederate Government. The fortifications in and around the city, which have been unoccupied for some time, are being put in order for occupation for that part of Lee's army which has been falling back from the line of the Rappahannock for some time past.

THE WAR COMMITTEE.

The Committee on the Conduct of the War had Gen. Keyes before them to-day, upon the subject of the Peninsula campaign. It is understood that his testimony was severely critical of its management.

PAYMENTS TO THE ARMY.

Within the last ten days forty millions have been paid to the Army, and within another week's time all the soldiers will have been paid off, or funds will have been provided for that purpose up to March 1. Hereafter, if the troops are not paid off regularly it will be the fault of some other Department or bureau than that of the Treasury.

A UNION MEETING TO BE HELD.

A vast Union meeting will be held in the Representatives' Hall and the Senate Chamber on Tuesday afternoon and evening next, at which the President and Cabinet will probably be present, and a large number of distinguished civilians and soldiers will speak.

REBEL CAVALRY ABROAD.

Persons coming within our lines to-day from the vicinity of Culpepper, say that on Monday last they passed several thousand cavalry, under Stuart, between the former place and Warrenton. As they had a number of wagons with them the supposition is that they were merely on a foraging foray.

WANT IN FREDERICKSBURGH, VA.

Such are the straits to which the rebellion has reduced the population of Fredericksburgh, that many of the wealthiest citizens of that place are compelled to draw daily rations of subsistence from their army Commissaries.

VISIT OF INDIANS TO THE WHITE HOUSE.

A delegation of six different Indian tribes from the Rocky Mountains, had a most interesting interview with the President at the White House to-day. They were: Cheyennes—Lean Bear, War Bonnet, Standing Water; Kiowas—Yellow Buffalo, Lean Wolf, Yellow Wolf, White Bull, Little Heart; Arapahoes—Spotted Wolf, Nevah; Comanches—Pricked Forehead, Ten Bears, Caddo, Jacob. Seated on the floor, in a line, in the great east room, they were surrounded by an immense crowd of people, officers of the Government and distinguished visitors. Lean Bear, Shotted Chief, and President Lincoln were the orators. At the conclusion of the ceremonies, the President advanced along the line, shaking hands with each Chief, who rose to his feet as Mr. Lincoln came along. When he came to two squaws, they evidently did not expect to be noticed, but the President paused before them, and they sprang up and shook him by the hand, with every expression of delight. Secretary Seward invited them to visit him at his house. The reception concluded with their being photographed in the Conservatory. Among the ladies who stood behind while they were seated on the ground, and thus formed part of the group, were Mme. Stoeckl, wife of the Russian Minister; Mrs. Lisboa, Miss Kate Chase, Miss Lisboa, and Miss Gerolt, daughter of the Prussian Minister.

SYMPATHY FOR SECESH.

The ineradicable venom of secessionism was shown in the National Capital, to-day, by the sympathy in speech, handkerchief-waving and gifts of money, exhibited by a large crowd of well-dressed women, su[illegible]ly gathered at a steamboat to greet 240 rebel p[illegible]rs on their way South. Their enthusiasm in a b[illegible]use was not quelled even by the use of soldiers to [illegible]r the dock.

ILLNESS OF MR. LOVEJOY.

Owen Lovejoy is still lying seriously ill at his rooms in this city. Although hopes are cherished of his ultimate restoration, his recovery is slow.

The able Representative from Indiana, Schuyler Colfax, is also here, nursing his wife in probably her last illness.

CENTRAL AND SOUTH AMERICA.

The State Department received to-day voluminous dispatches from Central and South America. The difficulties impending over several of the States, and which at one time bore a warlike aspect, at latest accounts were in a fair way of an amicable adjustment through the interposition of the American, English and French Ministers.

DISPATCHES TO THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

WASHINGTON, Tuesday, March 27.

VISIT OF THE INDIAN CHIEFS.

The representative Chiefs of the Cheyennes, Arapahoes, Comanches and other Indian tribes from the Plains, accompanied by the Commissioner of Indian Affairs and Superintendent of the Census, visited the Executive mansion to-day, for the purpose of having a talk with their Great Father, the President. They were gaudily dressed for the occasion, and formed a semicircle, seated on the floor of the East Room. Among the many spectators present were the members of the Cabinet, several foreign Ministers, and attachés of legations, together with the ladies of their households. In his opening speech, one of the chiefs said they had come together in obedience to the desire of their "Great Father," and were thus far highly gratified with their reception. The invitation had come for them through the air and dropped down like a bird. This was in allusion to the telegraphic message to the Indian Superintendent. The President replied, and in a spirit of encouragement pointed out the difference between the whites and the Indians, both as to their numbers and social condition. He said the former were great and prosperous, because they depended upon the arts of peace and the fruits of the earth rather than upon game and buffalo. Although we were engaged in a great and ugly war, yet in the main we were not so much disposed to fight and kill one another as our red brethren had been to slay us. He remarked that it was the desire of the Government to live on terms of peace with them. Care would be taken to have them comfortably returned to their homes. The Indians were evidently pleased with their reception, and parted with the President after the usual hand-shaking. The object in bringing them to Washington was to impress them with the extent of our country, and the numbers and power of our people, and to conclude with them treaties of peace of vast importance to emigration over the Plains.

DEAFNESS
NOISES IN THE HEAD,
Diseases of the Eye, Ear & Throat,
CATARRH CURED
BY
DR. VON EISENBERG.

From the Journal of Commerce.

EXCITING NEWS FOR THE DEAF.—An instrument called Dr. Von Eisenberg's Air Passage Expander and Regulator, a gigantic machine, weighing nearly five hundred pounds, about five feet in height, a most wonderful apparatus for restoring sight and hearing, has just arrived for Dr. Von Eisenberg, the celebrated Oculist and Aurist, and will be on exhibition at the Doctor's office, No. 816 Broadway, for a few days previous to its use. The instrument is constructed decidedly on the most scientific principles. To give a detailed description would require a greater space than we can now spare. Our Oculist and Aurist seems to do everything in the line of his profession on a gigantic scale. The new instrument for restoring hearing to the deaf and sight to the blind is so constructed that it cannot fail to open the most obstructed air passages. His new consulting rooms, No. 816 Broadway, are correspondingly magnificent, and his practice as Aurist and Oculist large and eminently successful.

From the New-York Evening Express, Feb. 14, 1863.

SENSATION AMONG THE DEAF.—The unrivaled skill of Dr. Von Eisenberg, the far-famed Oculist and Aurist, of No. 816 Broadway, has made quite a sensation among the Deaf and Blind by his wonderful cures, which attract the Deaf, Blind and those suffering from Chronic Catarrh, from all parts of the Union to his office. The number of his certificates of really wonderful cures swells daily. For the benefit of sufferers, we submit the following, which requires no comment:

NEW-YORK, Feb. 9, 1863.

I have been completely deaf in one ear, and partially so in the other, for above seventeen years, with a disagreeable discharge from both ears, combined with continual rumbling noise in the head, for which I have been treated by a most eminent practitioner in the City without the slightest relief.

I consulted Dr. Von Eisenberg, but I must candidly say that I had no faith in his success when I did so. It is, therefore, due to Dr. Von Eisenberg to acknowledge that I am entirely cured; also, that he displayed that skill and knowledge which have procured for him such an unrivaled reputation. As I have had an opportunity of comparing his mode of treatment with that of others, I can truly state that it is not only superior, but the principles which direct his mode of restoring the hearing are, in my opinion, certain.

JOHN TAYLOR,
No. 13 Livingston-st., Brooklyn.

NEW-YORK, July 19, 1862.

This certifies that my mother has been for some time afflicted with partial deafness, suffering from pain, and rumbling noises in the head, together with other indications of a total loss of hearing. Dr. Von Eisenberg removed from her ears a great quantity of matter, together with coagulated blood, relieving her instantaneously, and all without pain. It is with grateful thanks that I give this testimony to his skill.

CARROLL J. POST, No. 28 South-st.

No. 188 MERCER-ST., NEW-YORK.

J. E. VON EISENBERG, M. D.—Dear Doctor: I have been afflicted with total deafness, and was induced to pay you a visit. No one can imagine my delight when, after one operation, my hearing was suddenly, and without pain, restored to me, for which I feel very grateful. After being totally deaf—almost shut out from the pleasure of using so necessary a sense—to have it returned, and to hear so distinctly, reflects great credit on you for the immense amount of skill you possess. I beg to thank you for what I can so truly appreciate. I am, Sir, your obedient servant,

EDWARD TEMPLE HARRISON.

NEW-YORK, Nov. 6, 1862.

DR. VON EISENBERG—Dear Sir: Before taking leave of you, after your most successful operation on my ear, allow me to express my sincere thanks that, by your scientific surgical performance, I am enabled to hear distinctly, and enjoy a pleasure of which I have long been deprived—over a year. May you be rewarded by being enabled to perform many similar, to benefit other sufferers, and to your own emolument.

Allow me to present my kindest regards, and assure you of my grateful remembrance. Respectfully,

A. McDONALD REYNOLDS,
Captain Marines, United States.

CHRONIC CATARRH CURED.
READ!

NEW-YORK, March 20, 1863.

"This is to certify, that I have suffered from very severe CHRONIC CATARRH, with a dull heaviness in the head. I felt my nose completely stopped up accompanied by continual soreness of the throat, the chills stealing over me with occasional hot flushes, a great tightness of the chest and pain, so much so, that every one thought it was consumption. Having heard of the great cures performed by Dr. Von Eisenberg, I consulted him with but little hope of a cure. I am now happy to be enabled to add my testimonial to the great number already in the Doctor's possession, as to his scientific and successful mode of treatment, as he has shown in my case that skill and knowledge which have procured for him so great a reputation. I am so entirely restored to perfect health that I do most sincerely recommend all sufferers from CHRONIC CATARRH and SORE THROAT to apply at once to Dr. Von Eisenberg with a certainty of being cured."

Publish This Day
MADGE;
OR,
NIGHT AND MORNING
By
H. B. G.
1 vol., 12mo, Cloth, 407 pages; $1 25.

From the Congregationalist.

It contains the story of a young girl "bound out," as the custom is in the New-England villages; her Northern mistress was a harsh, selfish, and unfeeling woman, and the "bound girl's" character is pleasantly and interestingly portrayed, as it becomes molded and hewn out by the hard circumstances of her lot, till she becomes "purified by suffering," a perfect woman.

From the Watchman and Reflector.

Its purity of sentiment, its moral tone, its quiet, religious under-current, its pleasant pictures of home life, its truthful delineations of woman's heart, please the reader, while they also instruct. The story is excellently written, and the reader's interest retained unabated until well the dénouement, which is unexpected but satisfactory.

HAVE NOW READY,
THE HISTORY OF THE REFORMATION
IN THE TIME OF CALVIN.
By J. H. MERLE D'AUBIGNE, D. D.
2 thick vols., 12mo. $3.

"D'Aubigne is well known to readers of every grade in this country; and Mrs. Stowe, and perhaps Macaulay, are his only rivals in popularity. It is a popularity well deserved, as every one will acknowledge who has lingered over his charmed pages."—Louisville Journal.

"The style of D'Aubigne is among the most pleasing we ever read. It combines the rhetorical ease and terseness of Macaulay with the historical precision and philosophical analysis of Hume."—Saturday Evening Express.

"The name of D'Aubigne has become inseparably connected with the history of the emancipation of the Christian Church from the errors and corruptions of Rome. Very few books, even in this age of reading, have found so many readers as the 'History of the Reformation.'"—Providence Journal.

From the Atlantic Monthly.

A cruel story this, Mr. Giddings tells us. Too cruel, but too true. It is full of pathetic and tragic interest, and melts and stirs the heart at once with pity for the sufferers, and with anger that sins not, at their mean and ruthless oppressors. Every American citizen should read it, for it is an indictment which recites crimes which have been committed in his name, perpetrated by troops and officials in his service, and all done at his expense.

PROPOSALS.

PROPOSALS FOR DESIGNS, MODELS, AND PRINTING OF TREASURY NOTES.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, March 23, 1863.

PROPOSALS are hereby invited for Designs for Treasury Notes to be issued under the act approved March 3, 1863.

Proposals will be received for the denominations of 10s, 20s, 50s, 100s, 500s, 1,000s, and 5,000s, the right being reserved by the Secretary of the Treasury to omit any of the above denominations from accepted offers, or to substitute the designs of one denomination for those of another, or to use them interchangeably, or to alter their legends.

The designs must be national in their character, and preference will be given, under equal circumstances, to such as have not been used, in whole or in part, upon any currency, bond, certificate, or other representative of value, and completed bills must all be of the uniform size of seven inches by three inches.

Proposals must be for both the obverse and reverse of the notes. The obverse must prominently present the words "TREASURY NOTE," with the following or similar legend: "Two years after date the United States will pay to bearer fifty dollars, with interest at five per cent. per annum, payable semi-annually," as follows:

On the first day of October, 1863, one dollar and fifty cents.

On the first day of April, 1864, one dollar and fifty cents.

On the first day of October, 1864, one dollar and fifty cents.

On the first day of April, 1865, one dollar and fifty cents.

The sums denoting the accrued and accruing interest must be placed near the centre of the width of the note and about two inches from its right-hand end.

Space must be allowed for the seal and for the signatures of the Treasurer and Register.

On the reverse there must be two tablets, to contain the following legends, or such others of about the same number of words as may be substituted by the Secretary:

1st. "This note will be exchanged by the Treasurer or any Assistant Treasurer or any specially designated depositary of the United States for United States notes equal in amount to its face value and interest to last date of interest payment; or "This note is a legal tender to the same extent as United States notes for its face value, without interest."

2d. "Every person making or engraving, or aiding to make or engrave, or passing or attempting to pass any imitation or alteration of this note, and every person having in possession a plate or impression made in imitation of it, or any paper made in imitation of that on which the note is printed, is guilty of felony, and subject to fine not exceeding one thousand dollars, or imprisonment not exceeding fifteen years at hard labor, or both."

Proposals will be received until the 13th day of April, 1863, and must in all cases be accompanied by models or illustrative drawings.

Proposals may be made for designs alone, or for completed dies, or for the entire work of engraving and printing. If the proposals are for the entire work, the price must be separately stated for furnishing the dies, for making the plates, (including all cost for reentering,) for printing per 1,000 impressions of four notes each, and for paper per 1,000 impressions, and a sample of the paper proposed to be used, with the name of the maker thereof, must accompany the proposals. Proposals must also state the length of time required after acceptance of a bid, before deliveries will commence, and thereafter the number of thousand impressions that will be delivered daily.

If the proposals are for the entire work, they must also state at which of the following post offices the impressions will be delivered, properly packed for transmission, free of any charge for package or delivery, viz.: at St. Louis, Cincinnati, Chicago, Buffalo, New-York, or Boston

The Secretary reserves the right to accept designs only and cause the engraving to be done by other parties than those making the proposal, or to accept designs and dies and cause the transferring and printing to be done by others, or to reject a part or all of any proposal, as may be for the interest of the Government.

In all cases of accepted bids the designs and dies together with all rolls, bed-pieces, plates or other copies thereof must be the sole and exclusive property of the United States. Those rejected will be returned to the respective bidders.

In the selection of designs special attention will be given to security against counterfeiting and alterations.

Proposals and designs must be inclosed in sealed envelopes and directed to the Secretary of the Treasury, and plainly indorsed "Designs and Proposals for Treasury Notes," and will be opened on the 13th day of April, 1863, at 12 o'clock M.
S. P. CHASE,

QUARTERMASTER-GENERAL'S OFFICE, WASHINGTON CITY, March 19, 1863. }

OWNERS OF STEAM VESSELS ARE INvited to send to the Quartermaster-General's Office tenders for their charter or sale.

Senders should contain descriptions of the vessels, their dimensions, enrolled or registered tonnage, actual carrying capacity, material, whether coppered, whether side-wheel or propellers, whether iron or copper fastened; size and power of engines and boilers; and should state the price at which they are offered, for long or short charter, with the estimated value of the vessel in case of loss, or in case the Government should prefer to purchase instead of chartering.

Owners of steam vessels already in the service of the Quartermaster's Department are requested to make known to the Department any reduction in their present rates which they may be willing to grant, and also the price at which they will be willing to sell them.

All such tenders should be addressed to the Quartermaster-General of the United States at Washington, and should be indorsed,

"Proposals for charter or sale of steamers."

When received they will be considered, and the Department will endeavor to reduce the heavy expense attending army transportation, upon the ocean and tide-waters, by substituting, wherever it can do so, cheaper vessels of equal capacity for those now employed.

NAVY DEPARTMENT, WASHINGTON CITY, March 2, 1863. }

BUREAU OF ORDNANCE.—THIS BUREAU is desirous of ascertaining whether rifled cannon can be made of wrought iron of sufficient and uniform endurance and economy to warrant their being preferred to guns of cast iron only, or of cast iron strengthened with wrought iron.

Proposals will therefore be received from any manufacturers of forged iron to furnish a finished gun, or a block of metal from which the same may be finished.

The said gun, when finished, to weigh about 10,000 pounds, to be made into a gun throwing a projectile of 100 pounds, as used in cast iron rifled cannon of like weight; to be fired 1,000 times with service charges of the same weight and kind of powder as used in the Parrott 100-pounder—viz.: 10 pounds of No. 7—without bursting, or wearing in such a manner as to cause apprehensions of bursting.

The quality of metal, price and other terms, are to be stated clearly in the proposal forwarded.

The Bureau reserves the right to itself of accepting or rejecting any of the proposals.

The time for receiving the proposals is limited to thirty days from date, and proposals will only be received from persons actually engaged in the fabrication of wrought iron.
JOHN A. DAHLGREN,
Chief of Bureau.

CAUTION TO LADIES.

Madame RESTELL, Female Physician, No. 162 Chambers-street, deems it her duty to caution ladies against impostors, who appropriate her advertisements word for word, merely substituting some ignorant and wholly irresponsible person as "Madame"

These persons have spurious "Female Monthly Pills" and other poisonous compounds to deprive the unwary or the easily duped as well of their means as of their health.

That ladies may avoid these impositions, Madame Restell feels called upon to give this caution.

MRS. MAXWELL, M. D.,

No. 6 Greene-st., New-York, takes pleasure in offering her services to the ladies who are suffering from irregularities, suppression, &c., (from whatever cause produced.) In order to extend her sphere of usefulness, she has taken a large house, regardless of expense, and fitted it up as a lying-in hospital, where the most perfect confidence is observed, and all the comforts of a sick room are received. Also, Female Monthly Pills, price $1. And where the children can always be adopted.

SURE CURE—BY DR. POWERS, SUCCESSfully consulted with Dr. Ward, No. 12 Laight-st. Conducted on the plan of the Hospital des Veneriens, Paris, where those afflicted with any form of private disease can receive prompt treatment, without risk or exposure, viz.: Syphilis, gonorrhœa, gleet, strictures, ulcers, tumors, cancers, secondary and constitutional syphilis, diseases of the kidneys, &c., &c. Thirty years of extensive practice, exclusively devoted to the treatment of those complaints enable us to effect cures in cases where others of less experience have failed. Dr. Powers' Essence of Life restores the vigor of youth in four weeks. This marvelous agent restores manhood to the most shattered constitutions—physical disqualifications, impediments to marriage, thereby speedily cured. The men to consult, Drs. Ward and Powers, the champions and kings of venereal diseases, possessing the most certain, speedy and only effectual remedies in the world, guarantee a perfect cure, in from one to three days. Established in 1840. N. B.—Those who have used their preventives are never without. Send for a circular. To Ladies.—Dr. Powers' Periodical Drops are a safe and certain remedy for monthly irregularities. The above remedies sent by mail. The afflicted should read their circular. Postage free, on receipt of a stamp. Cures warranted.

PRIVATE DISEASES CURED IN THE shortest possible time, by DR. WARD & CO., No. 12 Laight-st., near Canal, without the use of Mercury, loss of time or change of diet. Dr. WARD, from the hospitals of London, Paris and Edinburgh, is the discoverer of the only certain and reliable remedies for diseases of a private character. In 28 years practice he has cured more cases of Secret Diseases and Wrong Treatment than all others combined. I can and will cure you in less time and expense than any one can or will, and those who have been robbed of their money and health, call; it will take but little money and time to restore you. If you have been unfortunate, call at once. By his special experience in this much-neglected branch of medical science, he is enabled to guarantee a cure in the most complicated cases. Recent cases of Gonorrhœa or Syphilis cured in a few days, without change of diet or hindrance from business. Secondary Syphilis—the last vestige eradicated without the use of Mercury. Involuntary emissions stopped in a short time. Sufferers from Impotency, or loss of sexual power, restored to full vigor in a few weeks. Permanently and speedily cured by a new treatment. Persons at a distance, failing to receive prompt treatment elsewhere, may get a permanent cure effected by writing a full diagnosis of their case, addressed to DR. WARD, No. 12 Laight-st., the only place. Call, send or write.

MAD. RESTELL, FEMALE PHYSICIAN can be consulted, as usual, at No. 162 Chambers-st., or by letter, and medicine sent by mail. THE VIGOR OF YOUTH IS RESTORED by Dr. POWERS' ESSENCE OF LIFE OR INVIGORATING ELIXIR, and Dr. Powers Radical Pills or Physical Regenerator. Young man! Prepared and sold by Dr. POWERS, No. 12 Laight-st., New-York. Afflicted, try them! They will certainly cure. Send for circular; read it carefully, and then you will send for the remedies.

IMPORTANT TO THE MARRIED AND THOSE ABOUT TO BE MARRIED.—Dr. A. M. MAURICEAU, Professor of Diseases of Women, has just published the 160th edition of the valuable book, entitled "THE MARRIED WOMAN'S PRIVATE MEDICAL COMPANION" strictly intended for those whose health or circumstances forbid a too rapid increase of family. Price $1. Sold at his office, No. 129 Liberty-st., New-York; or can be sent by mail, free of postage to any part of the United States and Canada, by inclosing $1, and addressing Box No. 1,224 New-York City. He will, therefore, send free to any address on receipt of two stamps, a copy of the work, containing every information required. Address Box No. 579 Post-office, Albany, N. Y.

MAD. DESPARD'S FEMALE MONTHLY PILLS are the only medicine married or single ladies can depend on with safety and certainty. Can be sent by mail to any part of the United States and Canadas. N. DR. HUNTER'S RED DROP RESTORES the vigor of youth in four days. Restores manhood to the most shattered system. No. 3 Division-st., New-York, the only place. Beware of bogus Dr. Hunters. The City is full of knaves, up to every trick to rob Dr. HUNTER of his great reputation as a skillful and reliable physician. He has no other office but No. 3 Division-st. Established in 1834.

SOMETHING FOR EVERY LADY.—DR. WARD'S Great Female Benefactor or Golden Regulating Pills. Infallible in correcting, regulating and removing all obstructions, from whatever cause, designed for purely legitimate purposes—to restore the menstrual fluid—and they will never disappoint the anxious patient. Office, No. 12 Laight-st., where Dr. WARD can be consulted, confidentially, day and evening.

PILES, PILES.—EXTERNAL OR INTERNAL, blind or itching, and the worst cases can at once be relieved and entirely cured by a new invention that holds them up, and, by its use, produces their absorption and completely removes them, or money refunded. Sent free by mail on receipt of $1. Sold by all druggists. Address Dr. W. H. HALL, No. 690 Broadway, New-York.

DR. JOHNSON, NO. 14 DUANE-ST., MAY be consulted with confidence on private diseases. Thirty years in one specialty enables him to guarantee speedy and permanent cures. N. B.—Those who may have been misled by quack advertisements, nostrums, &c., can call on Dr. J. with the certainty of receiving honorable treatment.

PRIVATE CONSULTATION.—DR. HUNTER has, for thirty years, confined his attention to diseases of a certain class, in which he has treated no less than fifty thousand cases, without an instance of failure. His great remedy, HUNTER'S RED DROP, cures certain diseases, when regular treatment and all other remedies fail; cures without dieting or restriction in the habits of the patient; cures without the disgusting and sickening effects of all other remedies; cures in new cases in less than six hours; cures without the dreadful consequent effects of mercury, but possesses the peculiarly valuable property of annihilating the rank and poisonous taint that the blood is sure to absorb, unless his remedy is used. That is what he claims for it, and what no other will accomplish. Its value in this respect has become so well known, that scientific men in every department of medical knowledge begin to appreciate it, for hardly a week passes that he is not consulted by druggists, chemists and physicians, in regard to some pitiful patient who has exhausted the whole field of the faculty, and still the disease will appear. Its popularity is so great, that there is not a quack doctor in the City that has not attacked it; and when they find their lies are not so easily swallowed, they then pretend that they can make it. It is $1 a vial, and cannot be obtained genuine anywhere but at the old office, No. 3 Division-st. Book for 15 three-cent stamps, 300 pages, 100 colored illustrations. The best work out.

$3, $3 50, $4 AND $4 50.—SHOES AND GAITERS. At JONES', Nos. 10 and 12 Ann-st.

LOYAL MASS MEETING IN NEWARK.

Addresses by Hon. James Wadsworth, of New-York, and Daniel F. Tompkins, of New-Jersey.

Loyal Union Leagues Increasing Rapidly—The Democrats of New-Jersey with Van Buren and Brady.

There was a very large and enthusiastic meeting of unconditional Union men in Orston Hall, Newark, N. J., last evening, held under the auspices of the Loyal Union League of Newark. The meeting was called at 7½ o'clock, and at that time the hall was crowded and the stairway full of citizens eager to enjoy the promised addresses from JAMES T. BRADY, Esq., and Hon. JAMES WADSWORTH. The meeting, however, was not organized for some little time after the hall was full, and the interval was occupied in conversations between individuals, relative to the change which has taken place and is still progressing in the feelings and speech of the Democracy of New-Jersey in relation to the policy of sustaining the Administration in a more vigorous prosecution of the war against rebellion. In this connection the feeling seemed to be unanimous that Mr. VALANDIGHAM had done more good by his visit to New-Jersey than any other man who had visited that State since the opening of the war. There were many honest men in New-Jersey, they said, as everybody knew, who had not voted for Mr. LINCOLN for President, and who believed that mistakes had been made by his Administration, but who never dreamed of refusing to sustain his legitimate authority as President, nor of encouraging treason by throwing obstacles in the way of those who were doing their utmost to put it down. These men, when they heard that those who they knew to have once ranked as Democrats; and who, like FERNANDO WOOD, when the fight began, had declared that the rebels must walk over their dead bodies before success should crown their criminal efforts, when they heard the loyalty of such men spoken of with suspicion, were inclined to believe the fault lay with the suspecting and not with the suspected. But Mr. VALLANDIGHAM'S timely visit, and FERNANDO WOOD'S published speeches, had set them right on the question of Copperheads and what "Copperhead" means politically. They were loyal at heart—men familiar with the word, and knew its meaning as applied to an American citizen. They could not, even with the aid of WOOD and VALANDIGHAM, see how the man or faction knowing no such word as "loyalty" in their political lexicon, who talked of rebellion as simply an error, and treason merely as political heresy, could be Democrats of the old Jackson School, in which they had been educated; and it required the speech of VALLANDIGHAM, and the printed word of WOOD, to assure them that men holding such language claimed to be Democrats. Ever since the persons named had given them assurance that such was the fact, Loyal Leagues had been organizing, and there was a gratifying prospect of an early extinction of Copperheadism in New-Jersey. Such was the character of the conversations during the interval and the conclusion arrived at, when called the meeting to order. In doing so, he raised a rudely-constructed chair, and, showing it to the audience, said he believed they were all in favor of home manufactures, and as a specimen of that class of workmanship he exhibited the article, which, he said, was made by a New-Jersey soldier in Virginia, with a jackknife and an augur, and had often been sat upon by "Fighting JOE" HOOKER. [Applause.] He then introduced on whose appearance the applause was renewed. Mr. WADSWORTH commenced his remarks by saying that on his arrival in New-York City last evening, he became aware that it had been publicly announced that he would present an elaborate argument in answer to the speech recently delivered by Mr. VALANDIGHAM in that city. He had not made any preparation to answer Mr. VALANDIGHAM, and therefore would only present to them such thoughts as might be uppermost in his mind as he spoke. In his opinion the speech of Mr. VALANDIGHAM had been very effectively answered by the fact of the number of Loyal Union Leagues which had sprung up wherever he had spoken. [Great applause.] The same, he was rejoiced to say, had been the case in Connecticut, where the gallant and patriotic JAMES T. BRADY [great applause] was now engaged with all his powers of oratory in speaking for a vigorous prosecution of the war. [Great applause.] He was sorry Mr. BRADY was not in the hall, that they might listen to his denunciation of traitors, but there was work to be done in Connecticut, and it was well that he should be there. [Applause.] Such men as VALLANDIGHAM and WOOD had endeavored to lead the Democracy of New-York away from their allegiance to the Government, but they had not succeeded. [Applause.] Such men as JAMES T. BRADY, Judge DALY and JOHN VAN BUREN were, could not be made to follow WOOD and VALLANDIGHAM. [Applause.] The only Democracy they recognized in time of war, was a War Democracy—[great applause]—and the Democrats of New-York and elsewhere would stand with them in this, the day of the nation's peril. [Applause.] Mr. BRADY had gone into Connecticut to speak against SEYMOUR, whose hand, was still warm from the pressure of a traitorous hand and against treason in any form, and he was sure he would succeed, [applause.] And where stood the people of New-Jersey now? He believed they stood exactly where they stood when the first gun was fired against Fort Sumter, [applause,] ready and willing to sustain the Government in sustaining its authority [applause]. Mr. VALANDIGHAM had said that this war was an invasion of the South. An invasion of the South! Supporting our own Government against those who would destroy it was, in Mr. VALLANDIGHAM'S opinion, an invasion of the South. [Laughter.] Rebellion, with him, was a mere error of opinion, and treason only heresy. That such was not the case. Rebellion against the Government of the United States was rebellion, and must be crushed; and treason was a crime punishable by the highest punishment known to the law. [Applause.] Men of the Wood and Vallandigham school were opposed to putting down the rebellion by force—they said they were in favor of the laws, but not in favor of enforcing them, nor of sustaining the Administration in putting the rebellion down. It would not do for us to admit the right of a State to secede from the United States—the Government of the United States was not formed by the States, but by the people of the United States. Admit the right of secession, and the logical sequence was an acknowledgment of the right of an individual to secede from the Government of the State, county, city or town, and Government would be at an end. It was our duty to sustain the General Government whether we were in civil life or on the battle-field. [Applause.] It was not our duty now, when the Government has its strong hand upon the throat of the rebellion, to, like WOOD and VALLANDIGHAM, cry out "peace, peace; blessed are the peacemakers." [Great applause.] The rebellion, by the admission of its own Press, was now in desperate strait, and now, more perhaps than at any other period, was the time for us to strengthen the arm of our Government, and encourage our noble armies in the field. [Applause.] The speaker continued his remarks at considerable length, dealing with the criminality of treason and those who aided and abetted it, and concluded by expressing the belief that the Democracy of New-Jersey would stand by BRADY, and DALY and VAN BUREN, as would the Democracy of New-York. His speech was listened to with marked attention, and, as indicated, was often interrupted by warm and hearty applause.

HON. JAMES WADSWORTH,

When he had concluded, "Soldiers, on to victory" was sung by Mr. PATTERSON, and then was introduced, and spoke briefly, but strongly and eloquently, in favor of doing all we possibly could to aid the Government and our armies in putting down the rebellion.

MR. DANIEL F. TOMPKINS

When he had concluded the meeting, which had been exceedingly enthusiastic throughout, separated. Other meetings, under the auspices of Loyal Union Leagues, will follow the meeting of last evening.

Union League of the Loyal Men of Brooklyn

The National War Fund, of Brooklyn, has taken the initiatory step toward the formation of a Union League of Loyal men in that city, under a Constitution which is sufficiently explicit on the great matter at issue, and which cannot fail to meet the approval of every loyal citizen. Meetings are to be held, and work done similar to that performed by the original League in this City, of which WINFIELD SCOTT is the President.

Ward Leagues, subject to a certain control by the present League, will be started throughout the City, and soon the entire population will be united in name as they now are in fact, for the overthrow of copperheaded rebellion and the success of the Union arms.

The Executive Council of the Union League is composed of the following gentlemen, who will be recognized as belonging to both the Democratic and Republican parties: A. A. Low, Esq., S. B. Chittenden, Esq., Hon. S. S. Powell, Hon. C. Brush, Nathaniel Briggs, Esq., Hon. James Humphrey, Hon. John A Cross, H. C. P. Smith, Hon. Samuel Sloan, Hon. J. S. T. Stranahan, S. L. Husted, Esq., Ambrose Snow, Esq., Chas. A. Meigs, Esq., Hon. E. A. Lambert, C. J. Lowrey, Esq., C. J. Bergen, Esq., C. L. Benedict, Esq., Alex. McCue, Esq., J. V. Meserole, Esq., Samuel M. Mecker, Esq. The President of the Executive Council is Hon. J. S. T. STRANAHAN; Corresponding Secretary, Mr. C. L. BENEDICT; Recording Secretary, Mr. C. J. LOWREY.

FROM THE STATE CAPITAL.

Curious Item in the Supply Bill—The Callicot Investigation—Bounties to Soldiers—Passage of Mr. Dean's Gold Bill in the Assembly, &c.

From Our Own Correspondent.

ALBANY, Friday, March 27, 1863.

A rather curious development took place while the Supply bill was under discussion in the House last evening. The bill, as reported, contained the item of ten dollars per day, to be paid to M. D. MURPHY, as counsel to the Committee appointed at the last session to inquire into the unclaimed deposits in the savings banks. Power had not been conferred on the Committee to employ counsel, and as it was more than suspected that the item would rise to between two and three thousand dollars, the House struck it out unanimously. An unsuccessful effort was made to restore it, on the plea that Mr. MURPHY having been employed by the Committee, he ought to be paid something. But the House was obstinate, and would not vote a cent.

In the evening, when there was some disposition to relent, a communication from Comptroller ROBINSON to Mr. T. C. FIELDS disclosed the fact that Mr. MURPHY had already been paid by that officer $600, or $3 per day for 220 days, for services as clerk of the Committee for which he besieged the House to give him $10 per day, indefinitely, as counsel. It is proper to say, that when the Committee of Ways and Means put the item in the bill, nothing had been paid to Mr. MURPHY, and it was placed there for the consideration of the House.

The Investigating Committee held a session yesterday afternoon. IRA SHAFER, Esq., appeared for the prosecution, and Hon. LYMAN TREMAIN and Hon. C. B. COCHRANE for the defence. Mr. TREMAIN submitted in writing that under the resolution appointing the Committee the investigation must be confined to the acts of the accused in official capacity at the present session. After a lengthy discussion by counsel the Committee adjourned to meet at 3 P. M. to-day.

The bill providing for bounties to soldiers and the support of their families, passed the Senate yesterday without opposition. It appropriates $3,000,000, to be collected by tax on the taxable property of the State. The measure is one of imperious necessity, and if the money can be obtained from no other source, and though the sum were twice three millions, the people would cheerfully submit to be taxed. But there is pending in the Senate an offer of what amounts to a donation of $2,000,000 for the same object, and the question is, whether it shall be accepted, or the lieu thereof bestowed for nothing on GEORGE LAW & Co. Its acceptance would lessen taxation $2 000,000, and place in the State Treasury that sum for the benefit of our soldiers and their families.

The Broadway bill was discussed at length in the Senate last evening, and some amendments made. Though Senator GANSON did not formally move his substitute, which is substantially the offer of Mr. STEWART and his associates, he foreshadowed his intention to do so. Mr. GANSON at the same time expressed the belief that the Senate could not bring itself to the point of rejecting it.

One of the most animated contests of the session took place in the House on the bill repealing the law exempting clergymen from taxation. The repeal was advocated and resisted with zeal and ability. It was urged that in times like these there should be no exempts, and that since the clergy had been admitted to all the privileges, civil and military, enjoyed by others, there existed no good reason why they should not be subjected to an equal share of the burdens. In the course of the debate, Mr. HEACOCK stated that no other profession had sent into the field so large a proportion of its members as that of the clergy. The bill to repeal the exemption law failed, and so the clergy are, in this respect, as they were.

The large vote cast for Mr. DEAN'S Anti-Gold Speculation bill on its final passage in the House, was significant of the feeling of that body. It is confidently believed that the Senate will pass this or some other equally stringent bill.

The crowd of outsiders is on the increase, and the hotels overflow. The New-Yorkers make their Delavan the principal headquarters, and one might easily deceive himself into the belief, as he witnesses the multitude at that magnificent hotel, that he was one hundred and fifty miles nearer the mouth of the Hudson than geographers locate the Capital of the State.

[BY TELEGRAPH.]

ALBANY, Friday, March 27—12 M.

The Callicot Investigating Committee took the testimony of Mr. THOMAS HOPE, of Brooklyn, this afternoon, which was to the effect that HOPE came to Albany on the 19th of January, after CALLICOT had been nominated for Speaker, and presented him for payment for eight shares of bank stock, borrowed in 1859 of Mrs. MARY A. WOOD, of Brooklyn, and threatened to hand to Mr. T. C. FIELDS a certain document in case the money was not paid forthwith; that several days after CALLICOT paid HOPE $1,200, and took a receipt in full for the debt.

Nos. 3, 6, 12, 14, 15, 5, 17, 18, 19, 20.

Maj.-Gen. Sumner—His Obsequies at Syracuse.

Correspondence of the New-York Times.

SYRACUSE, Wednesday, March 25, 1863.

The obsequies of Maj.-Gen. EDWIN V. SUMNER took place to-day. Many distinguished officers had been invited, of whom Generals MCCLELLAN, WOOL, BURNSIDE, STONEMAN, FRANKLIN, BARNARD and others found it impossible to attend. Gen. MCCLELLAN sent a letter regretting his inability to be present, and expressing his appreciation of the virtues of the deceased. Maj. Gen. FREMONT, with Cols. ALBERT, TRACY and ZAGONYI, Major HASKELL, and Capts. HOWARD, RAYMOND and NICHOLS, of his Staff; Major-Gen. SLOCUM, with Lieut. TRACY, and others of his Staff, and many other officers of the army, were present to do honor to the noble dead. The presence of Gen. FREMONT was peculiarly appropriate, since Gen. SUMNER and he were once fellow-officers in the Mounted Rifles, of which regiment FREMONT was Lieutenant-Colonel, while SUMNER was Captain and Major.

Attempts were made to procure more troops from other cities, but the military element of Western New-York is more fully represented on the Rappahannock than hereabouts; and, finally, the Committee were obliged to omit the usual cavalry escort, and rely upon the Fifty-first regiment, National Guard, for the infantry escort. This regiment, one of the best drilled in the State, supplied also the guard of honor, sentinels, &c. The regularity of their marching, and the soldierlike precision of their volley-firing, attracted the attention and applause of the military guests, and reflected great credit on their efficient Colonel, J. DEAN HAWLEY.

The funeral ceremonies began at about half-past ten, with a service at the house of Gen. SUMNER. Lieut.-Col. JONES, Maj. KIPP, Capts. AUDENRIED and SUMNER, (the latter a son of the General,) members of his Staff, who had been in the city waiting to attend their chief to his new command in the West, were now grouped with the family about his coffin, and followed his body to the grave. The house was filled to overflowing with the friends of the family, and the streets in the neighborhood were crowded with citizens. The day was alternately cloudy and clear, and one or two heavy showers somewhat detracted from the comfort of those who were out of doors—comprising the whole population of the city and thousands from other places.

After the private services the procession was formed and the remains, deposited in a splendid hearse, and covered with the starry flag for which the departed hero had so often risked his life, were removed to the Presbyterian Church, where the eulogy was pronounced by Rev. Dr. CANFIELD. The most interesting part of the exercises was the appearance of old "Father WALDO," now in his 101st year, who made the closing prayer with much eloquence and feeling. Father WALDO is one of the few remaining genuine Revolutionary soldiers.

From the church, the procession moved out of the city to the beautiful cemetery of "Oakwood," where the last sad rites were consummated. The flag and sword of the General were removed from the coffin before it was lowered into the earth—a circumstance to which Rev. Mr. STRIBBY, in his brief remarks, thus beautifully alluded:

"It is fit that the banner of our country should cover the body of our honored dead, for he consecrated to its service a long and faithful life. It is fit that the sword he bore should lie upon his bier, for it is stained with no dishonor. And yet we remove these symbols of an untarnished fame. The country still needs the services of her gallant sons. Yon noble steed must bear some other warrior to the battle; this flag must wave over other bloody fields; this sword a successor or a son of him who is gone will draw once more in defence of the Constitution and the laws. Let us give the body to the dust, but keep these emblems, for the cause it lives."

The procession returned through the city to Gen. SUMNER'S house, and there dispersed. The streets, windows, balconies, and even roofs of houses, were crowded with spectators. Flags at half-mast were displayed from the principal buildings and from numerous private dwellings. The local pride of Syracuse finds a worthy expression in the sympathy with which her citizens follow the career of her gallant sons. It is not long since gallant young KIRBY SMITH was followed to his last resting-place by his fellow-citizens. Gens. PECK and SLOCUM, both Syracuseans, are still in active and successful service. May it be long ere the city feels aught but joy for them!

Gen. FREMONT returns to-night to New-York. Although he has preserved as strict a privacy as possible, he has received many proofs of the favor with which he is regarded by the citizens of Syracuse, without distinction of party.

LAW REPORTS.

Attorney and Client—Regardless of the Taxable Costs, There is no Error in Giving the Former a Fair Compensation from the Latter.

SUPREME COURT—GENERAL TERM.

Before Justices Sutherland, Ingraham and Clerke.

Sanford et al. vs. Ruckman and one other case.—These actions were brought to recover counsel fees. The defence was that the plaintiffs, as attorneys of the defendant, were guilty of negligence, and, further, that the charges for term fees were not taxable as between the parties.

The case was referred, and the Referee found for the plaintiffs, after hearing considerable evidence on both sides in respect to the question of negligence.

Appeal was taken to this Court, and after declining to disturb the finding of the Referee in respect to negligence, the Court, per CLERKE, J., say in respect to the other point:

As to the second question, even admitting that the charges for term fees were not taxable as between the parties, yet it was proved that the aggregate amount of these fees was not an unreasonable compensation for the services rendered. This is all that is necessary to justify the finding of the Referee. It is not necessary to refer to the fee bill at all, to ascertain what is a proper compensation to be paid by a client to his attorney; and if it is referred to, although the items would be deemed erroneous by the taxing officer, still, if the whole amount does not exceed what the attorney is entitled to as a fair compensation from his client, the Referee does not err by allowing him that amount. No legal exception taken in either case is tenable.

The judgment in both cases should be affirmed, with costs.

Verdict on a Question of Fact.

SUPERIOR COURT—TRIAL TERM.

Before Justice White.

Calvin Huntington vs. Thos. Douglass and Chas. Douglass.—This was an action of trover, brought to recover the value of certain produce which the plaintiff alleges the defendants sold to him in June, 1861, and afterwards converted to their own use.

The defendants allege that the sale was a conditional one; that the plaintiff never complied with the terms of it, and that the goods belonged to a party in Boston, who took possession of them as owner.

The trial resulted in a verdict for the plaintiff for $5,112 11, and an allowance of $50 was ordered thereon.

Miller, Peet & Nichols for plaintiff; Sylvester Lay, J. Nelson and Judge Isham for defendants.

Surrogate's Court.

Before Surrogate Tucker.

Charitable Bequests.—The will of Catharine Gemmel, now admitted to probate, bequeaths to St. James' Church $3,000.

Wills Admitted.—The wills of Hugh McGinnis, T. W. Gravel, Frederick Byer, Sidney Morgan, Maria Anne Jenny Lagrange, and Michael McAmmy were now admitted to probate.

Decisions.

SUPERIOR COURT—SPECIAL TERM.

Before Justice Barbour.

Niblo vs. Harrison, impleaded.—An order must be entered, directing the receiver, who has been appointed pendente lite, to pay into Court, to the credit of this action, all the money which shall have come into his hands as receiver herein, less his commissions, and that upon such payment, the order appointing him be set aside and vacated; and also providing and directing that all further proceedings in this action be stayed until the committee as appointed by the Supreme Court shall have been discharged, or until such further order of this Court in the premises, as may be made upon the motion of either party on notice to the other.

COURT OF COMMON PLEAS—SPECIAL TERM.

Before Judge Daly.

Richter vs. Marks.—Bail offered is not a householder.

Before Judge Brady.

MUSIC—TUNE.—Sense of sound; love of music; perception of harmony and melody; ability to compose and perform music. Excess: Continued singing, humming or whistling, regardless of time, place or propriety. Deficiency: Inability to sing, to comprehend the charms of music, to distinguish one tune from another, or to remember the peculiarity of voice.

"Praise the Lord with harp; sing unto Him with the psaltery and an instrument of ten strings. Sing unto him a new song; play skillfully with a loud noise."—Psa. xxxiii., 2, 3.

"The singers went before, the players on instruments followed after; among them were the damsels playing with timbrels."—Psa lxviii., 25.

Would you become a musician? A Phrenological examination will reveal the fact as to whether or not you have the natural qualifications. Messrs. FOWLER & WELLS, No. 308 Broadway, give charts, with full written descriptions, daily.

N. B.—As many ask for Smith & Brother's celebrated Ales, and a SUBSTITUTE is offered, consumers will do well to see that they obtain the GENUINE.

TO ARMY AND NAVY OFFICERS.

From the Express.

Mr. M. S. FRIEND has matured a system of business that will meet the approbation of parties desiring to purchase stores, wines, teas, cigars, or, in fact, anything necessary for family purposes. Army and navy messes are supplied, shops and steamers furnished, and country merchants' orders filled with every article that may be desired, with promptness and fidelity. In his establishment, at No. 4 Dey-st., is a reading-room with writing conveniences, and a journal, where will be found the names, residences and destination of naval and military gentlemen registered. Here a steward may leave his order in the morning, and on going aboard at night will find the articles he desires, in better quality and with more punctuality than it would have been possible for him to have purchased himself. Mr. E. C. GENET, a gentleman long connected with the navy, will take supervision of the selecting and packing such goods as parties may order. We commend the attention of our readers to this new and novel enterprise.

FOR NON-RETENTION OR INCONTINENCE OF URINE, IRRITATION, INFLAMMATION OR ULCERATION OF THE BLADDER AND KIDNEYS, DISEASES OF THE PROSTATE GLAND, STONE IN THE BLADDER, CALCULUS GRAVEL OR BRICK DUST DEPOSIT, AND MUCOUS OR MILKY DISCHARGES, AND ALL DISEASES OR AFFECTIONS OF THE BLADDER AND KIDNEYS, AND DROPSICAL SWELLINGS EXISTING IN MEN, WOMEN OR CHILDREN.

HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU,

For weakness arising from Excesses, Habits of Dissipation, Early Indiscretions or Abuse, attended with the following symptoms: Indisposition to Exertion, Loss of Power, Loss of Memory, Difficulty of Breathing, Weak Nerves, Trembling, Horror of Disease, Dimness of Vision, Wakefulness, Pain in the Back, Universal Lassitude of the Muscular System, Hot Hands, Flushing of the Body, Dryness of the Skin, Eruptions on the Face, Pallid Countenance.

These symptoms, if allowed to go on, which this medicine invariably removes, soon follows Fatuity, Epileptic Fits, in one of which the patient may expire. Who can say that they are not frequently followed by those "direful diseases," "INSANITY and CONSUMPTION." Many are aware of the causes of their suffering, but none will confess. The records of the Insane Asylums, and the melancholy deaths by Consumption bear ample witness to the truth of the assertion. The Constitution once affected with Organic Weakness, requires the aid of medicine to Strengthen and invigorate the System, which HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU invariably does.
